

U.S. TO CONTROL COAL DISTRIBUTION

New Railroad Unions Will Be Recognized By U.S. Labor Board

U. S. TO ACT ON STRIKE SOON

KANSAS EDITOR AND HIS DEFI

Emporia, Kas.—Because William Allen White, newspaper editor and author, whose picture is shown above, posted in the window of his paper, the Emporia, Kas., Gazette, a card, also shown, expressing a percentage of sympathy with the railroad strikers, he has been arrested and must answer in the courts for his defiance of the Kansas industrial tribunal to a charge of contempt of the latter body, on the ground that he had no right to lend encouragement to one side or the other in a controversy which it is the industrial court's business to adjudicate.

Gov. Henry J. Allen, father of the industrial court, is pressing the case, and the governor and the newspaper man are lifelong friends. It is of his own and the governor's adventure that White tells in his book, "Henry and Me". Whether or not they'll still be friends after this, remains to be seen.

White says Allen's interpretation of the law is in disregard of the constitution's guarantees of a free press and free speech.

CABINET MEET MIGHT CAUSE NEW ACTIONS

Government Has Legal Authority to Take Over and Control Railroads

WOULD RESTORE SENIORITY

Some Administration Leaders Want Railroad Heads to Concede Points

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—A growing impression that the administration was rapidly approaching a point in its attitude toward the rail strike where a decisive move to arrest the resulting breakdown in transportation might be looked for, raised some expectation of important developments at Tuesday's cabinet meeting. President Harding is understood to have received the opinion from some of his advisers that the government can permit the disruption of transportation to go no further.

Some administration advisers are known to hold the view that the railroad executive should be called upon to make every effort to restore interstate commerce. They believe the railroads should even abandon, if necessary, their stand against restoration of seniority rights to striking shopmen.

Should the railroad executive refuse there was said to be no doubt of the president's authority to take over operation of the roads as a final resort, either under the Esch-Cummings act specifically or the general powers conferred in the constitution. There is, however, little disposition in government circles to consider meeting the situation by such drastic measures and further, the broad powers of transportation control vested under the transportation act in the Interstate Commerce Commission were cited as making such a step unnecessary.

SEN. LENROOT BUCKS SENATE WOOL TARIFF

Plans to Offer 60 Per Cent Limitation to Schedules Relating to Wool

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Whether Senator Lenroot, of Wisconsin, could swing enough Republican votes to overturn the tariff bill, the Democrats, the finance committee majority and the agricultural tariff bloc in the matter of a maximum rate of 60 per cent duty on coarse wool and its manufactures was a debatable question Tuesday at the capital.

The Wisconsin senator, who sought to have the committee accept his proposal and thus avoid an open break in the senate was determined to make his fight along that line unless the committee gave way. It was his plan to offer a 60 per cent limitation amendment to each paragraph in the wool schedule. A vote on the first, relating to carpet wools, was expected Tuesday.

Members of the committee backed by treasury experts, insisted that Mr. Lenroot's plan was not susceptible of administration at least so far as manufactures were concerned because of both coarse and fine wool-enters into a single piece of cloth.

The Wisconsin senator said he would have to further evidence than furnished thus far before he could be convinced that his plan was not feasible.

Democratic opponents of the duties in the wool schedule insist that all the rates be set too high and under the leadership of Senator Walsh, Massachusetts a member of the finance committee, they plan to show what they contend will be the result of the duties on prices of clothing and other products of wool.

FOUR YEAR NORMAL COURSE PROPOSED

Madison—Four year courses in Wisconsin normal schools will be considered by the Educational committee of the board of normal regents, a committee of city superintendents of schools, meeting here Wednesday.

The problem of training high school teachers confronts the educators of the state. The meeting Wednesday will determine whether this problem can best be solved by the establishment of four year normal school courses, providing opportunity for a major and a minor course of study for students.

It is not proposed that the four year course should turn the normal schools into colleges, but rather that machinery would be afforded to train an increasing number of high school teachers now in general demand throughout the state. Any recommendations made by the committee will have to be submitted to the legislature before they can be put in operation.

BARBER EXAMINATION GIVEN BY STATE BOARD

By Associated Press
Milwaukee—One hundred and twenty-five applicants for master barbers' certificates Tuesday finished examinations here before the Wisconsin board of barber examiners. Although the number passing the tests has not yet been announced, W. L. Smith, president of the board said that statistics show that only 37 per cent of the applicants pass the examination.

PROGRAM WILL BE IN EFFECT IN 48 HOURS

Government Will Appoint Local Committees if Cooperation Fails

TO PREVENT PRICE RISE

Emergency Control Applies To All Coal Mined in Union and Nonunion Fields

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—The government's emergency coal control program will begin to function within 48 hours.

Secretary Hoover in making this announcement Tuesday said ratification of the emergency plan for distribution was expected within 48 hours, but if cooperation was withheld in any district the government would proceed to appoint the necessary local committees.

The emergency coal control plan, Mr. Hoover stated, is intended to apply to all coal produced whether in the nonunion or union fields and it was indicated that service orders by the Interstate Commerce commission providing for priorities in the allocation of coal cars may be expected almost instantly.

As regards the coal strike itself, Mr. Hoover declared the government had exhausted every means toward a settlement, that it had offered arbitration which had been rejected and the matter to be taken care of now was the distribution of coal as produced.

STOP PRICE INCREASE

The commerce secretary emphasized the intention of the government to prevent advancing coal prices and declared that under the emergency program no freight cars would be allowed to those who tried to "rob the public." Sharp advances in prices have been reported to the commerce department from some localities, he said, reaching as high as $13.50 a ton in western Kentucky.

Selection of the personnel of the central committee of government officials to supervise the operation of the emergency plan was expected to be discussed with President Harding Tuesday by Secretary Hoover and announcement of its makeup to be made shortly.

Possible enactment of new legislation in connection with the government's emergency coal control program was indicated by Mr. Hoover who declared that no legislation was necessary to institute the plan, but that it should be of considerable length of time legislation might be necessary to defray the expenses of the organization.

GROESBECK TO TRY TO GET MINE PEACE

Saginaw, Mich.—Governor J. A. Groesbeck renewed his efforts here Tuesday to bring about resumption of operations in Michigan bituminous coal mines, virtually all of which are located near Bay City and Saginaw.

The governor came here for a conference with the state head of miners' union and the mine operators, convinced that nothing but loyalty to the national union stood in the way of a return to work of the miners who according to the executive, have no grievances with local operators.

The miners were being urged to return under a guarantee that none of the output would be shipped outside the state.

12 O'clock Noon The Dead Line

Hardly a day passes that someone doesn't either telephone or bring a Want Ad to the Post-Crescent between one and two P. M. They ask you to have their ad inserted at the same day. This however is an impossibility. If it were possible the Post-Crescent would gladly accommodate these persons, however mechanical conditions make it absolutely impossible to get their ad in at that day.

If you have a need for a Want Ad don't put off inserting the ad for an hour or so but call 543 as soon as the need arises and you will not be disappointed by having to wait another day before your ad can appear.

Nation's Industries Face Tie Up as Result of Rail and Coal Strikes

UNEMPLOYMENT IS SEEN

Railroad Transportation in Wisconsin Will Be at Standstill Soon

By Associated Press
Chicago — The new railroad labor unions proposed by the carriers will be recognized by the United States Railroad Labor board whenever they come before that body with a dispute; providing they can prove to the board that their membership contains a majority of the men then at work on the roads affected, board members said Tuesday.

At the labor board it was said that more than a score of telegrams from workmen who represented themselves as among the sponsors of the new unions had been received asking what attitude the labor board would take.

Chairman L. F. Loree of the eastern group of carriers recently announced that the roads in his territory would form new unions and was understood to have called a meeting of eastern railroad presidents Tuesday to discuss the plans.

The labor board went into executive session Tuesday presumably to officially hear chairman Hooper's report of his conference with President Harding.

STRIKES THREATEN INDUSTRY
The railway strike, combined with the coal strike was being brought home to the public through the announcements of leaders in several industries that unless a speedy settlement was reached closing of the plants with resulting unemployment, rationing of fuel and food supplies and a crippling of public utilities services would result.

Steel plants, especially in the east, will be closed on a wholesale scale if present conditions continue until August, according to the head of a large steel corporation. Industrial coal was said to be unobtainable at any price in New York. In Chicago, increases of from $5.25 to $15.25 a ton in coal prices were announced. A shortage of coal cars in bituminous fields has caused an appreciable decline in production.

The close relationship which the strikes were assuming was seen in the statement of H. B. Trumbower of the Wisconsin Railroad commission that if the coal strike lasted an additional two weeks rail transportation in that state would be at a standstill.

Hopes for immediate peace were centered in the meeting of officials of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad with representatives of the strikers. Success in settling differences on that road probably would mean that other roads would adopt a similar course.

STATION MEN ON JOB

Further spread of boycott was considered unlikely since the announcement that the 10,000 members of the station agent's union would remain at work, made by W. J. Noone, head of the union, after a conference with W. L. McMenimen, labor member of the rail board. However, members of the local union of firemen at Evansville, Ind., Monday adopted resolutions recommending a strike unless armed guards were removed from the entire Louisville and Nashville system.

Existing embargoes on freight have caused a shortage of commodities in several cities and lack of transportation has reduced the supply on a few lines. In Chicago a leading chain grocery firm Monday announced that the sale of sugar would be limited to ten pounds to a customer. Similar action had previously been taken in several small towns.

SAYS MILWAUKEE FIRMS WITHHOLD INCOME TAX

Milwaukee — Corporations located in Milwaukee whose income tax returns have been audited by the tax commission withheld revenue amounting to $284,466 during the past three years, Gov. J. J. Blaine declared in an address here.

The secrecy clauses to the income tax law has promoted and fostered the tendency on the part of corporations to withhold taxes, the governor said. Taxation as it affects the taxpayer that pay over $96,000,000 in property taxes is a public matter, and their returns are open to public inspection, but income taxpayers who pay an average of less than $6,000,000 a year, do not have their returns open to the public, Governor Blaine declared.

ATTACK DELAY IN CARING FOR WAR INJURED

Gen. Sawyer is Charged by Col. Sprague With "Standing in Way"

By Associated Press
Chicago — Colonel A. A. Sprague, chairman of the American Legion's national rehabilitation committee in a letter to Brig. Gen. Charles E. Sawyer, personal physician to President Harding and chief coordinator of the federal board of hospitalization, made public Tuesday, charged General Sawyer of standing in the way of proper care for wounded and shell shocked veterans and holding up hospital plans voted by congress.

"I recognize the fact," Col. Sprague wrote to the president's physician, "that before becoming chief coordinator of the federal board of hospitalization you had no contact with the men and women who were serving in the army and navy during the war and no experience either in the field or in government service that would give you a chance to really know how men feel who lost their nerves, their health and their minds in devotion to duty or how their families look upon these men who went out in the strength of their youth to invest their life in their nation's service."

Appealing to General Sawyer to "stand aside" Col. Sprague said over 4,500 mental cases are still confined in contract institutions and that of the remaining victims of these mental disorders only 3,500 are in government institutions devoted to their care.

Quoting from a letter received from Gen. Sawyer in which the chief coordinator said: "I am convinced that the peak of hospitalization has been passed" and that the government had sufficient beds except in two districts, Col. Sprague replied:

"It is almost unbelievable that, having satisfied congress that these hospitals were needed and that they should be built to capacity, that we now have to reply to your statement that they are unnecessary. Ask the boys in the contract asylums and their families, ask the men whose nerves have been shattered by this war, who have suffered for this lack of adequate hospitalization."

HEAVY FIGHTING REPORTED IN CORK

Dublin—Intense fighting is in progress in the vicinity of Kilmallock, county Limerick, according to reports reaching Dublin Tuesday. The reports stated that the Republican irregulars were trying to delay the advance of the Nationalists but while a good many men are said to be engaged in the fighting nothing like a pitched battle is apparently possible. The communications of the Nationalist forces are reported to be suffering here and there from small but active bands from guerrilla fighters who are cutting field telephone lines and harassing the Free Staters. The latter however are reported to be continuing their advance.

DIGEST BALLOT FAVORS LIGHT WINES AND BEER

New York—"Light wines and beer" are approved by 63 per cent of the 200,000 votes thus far received in the Literary Digest's prohibition poll. Only 37 per cent of this number are in favor of "strict enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead law" while 22 per cent were in favor of an absolute repeal of the prohibition amendment.

A similar poll on the soldiers bonus shows a switch in favor of the bonus, but with a majority of only 600 votes, it was announced.

A summary of the vote follows:

In favor of the strict enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and Volstead law, 76,597.

In favor of a modification of the Volstead law to permit light wines and beer, 85,151.

In favor of repealing the prohibition amendment, 45,648.

In favor of a federal bonus for all soldiers and sailors who wore the uniform during the world war.

Yes, 102,978; No, 102,579.

COURT BACKS DECISION OF LABOR BOARD

Holds That Board Has Right To Make Rules For Election of Representatives

U. S. NOT TO TAKE CONTROL

Case of Pennsylvania Road Was Made Test in Circuit Court of Appeals

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1922, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—Government measures to relieve the emergency in the rail and coal strikes amount at the moment simply to regulation. There is to be no control of the railroads in the sense in which such powers were exercised during the war. There is to be no seizure of coal properties by the federal government. But the federal government will lend its help in the allocation of such coal as is mined and in the movement of such trains as have the men and equipment to keep them moving.

The impression that the government will take over railroads and mines and make wage agreements with employees is erroneous. The steps taken by the federal government are merely to make best use of such coal production as is mined and such railroad equipment as is available. Nothing has been done yet by the government toward increasing the output of coal or toward compelling men to return to work on the railroad.

COURT MAKES RULING

Meanwhile a decision of far reaching importance has been handed down by the United States circuit court of appeals which practically settles a collateral issue which has been a sore spot in the relations between railroads and their employees in the east for some time.

The Pennsylvania railroad has insisted that any agreements reached by it with duly elected representatives of workmen are valid and binding on all the rest. The question of what "duly elected" means has forced the question into the courts. The Pennsylvania held an election and distributed its own ballots and the American Federation of Labor through its representatives issued a ballot and held an election. Neither ballot was considered proper by the United States Labor board and a new election was ordered by the board to determine the legitimate representatives of the workmen. The Pennsylvania railroad insisted that the labor board had no right to interfere and obtained an injunction in a federal court to restrain the labor board from proclaiming the fact that the Pennsylvania had violated a decision of the labor board.

Now comes the circuit court of appeals and by reversing the lower court sustains the power on the labor board to prescribe rules and regulations for the conduct of elections whereby spokesmen are appointed to represent workmen. The decision of the court makes it clear that the Pennsylvania railroad refuse to recognize any representatives of the workmen for any reason whatsoever irrespective of whether they are employees of the road or duly elected but if that's the case then under the transportation act, the railroad labor board can take cognizance of the dispute and issue a decision. The Pennsylvania claimed that the labor board had power only when there was a joint submission of the controversy whereas the court pointed out that it would be easy for either side to deadlock the matter and prevent the labor board from taking a hand in a situation which the law itself did not intend should follow.

BOARD STRENGTHENED

So now workmen can elect their own representatives and choose an organization to represent them if they wish and the Pennsylvania railroad cannot set up its own group of representatives through an election of its own making and claim that it has agreed with its men and that there is no controversy simply because alleged spokesmen of the employees have signed a document agreeing to any other document governing working conditions.

Statewide Swindle Is Halted By Police

VAN SCHINDLE DIES FROM INJURIES IN AUTO-TREE CRASH

Little Chute Youth Fails to Survive Wounds Suffered in Bad Crash Monday

Joseph Van Schindle, 24, of Little Chute who was injured when his car hit a tree near Little Chute at 3:45 Monday morning, died at St. Elizabeth hospital at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon as the result of his injuries. Van Schindle was driving to Little Chute when he lost control of his car. His injuries included a fractured skull, a broken jaw, cuts about the head, and broken right hand and right leg.

John Dercks, who was an occupant of the car suffered a painful injury to his shoulder, while Arnold Hietpas, also an occupant of the car escaped with only a few scratches. Van Schindle put up a fight for his life at the hospital but two attending physicians were unable to save him.

A casual conversation between A. K. Ellis, general manager of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company, and E. E. Bachman, president of Appleton Trades and Labor Council was the means of detecting the swindle.

Turk telephoned Mr. Ellis at his office explaining that the "painters' union" was issuing a labor day program and desired his company to use advertising space.

"If our local unions are getting this out, of course we want to help them out," said Mr. Ellis. "You can put us down for half a page."

The dummy gotten out by the men had the upper part of the page marked Peabody-Peabody company as if to indicate that firm had purchased space. Turk said he would send Croke to get the copy and check. Croke called and was given the advertisement and check payable to himself. The check was shown to have been endorsed by Turk and cashed in Green Bay.

Mr. Ellis met Mr. Bachman Monday and casually wished the latter success in completing the labor day program. Mr. Bachman explained that none was being completed. Chief George T. Prim of the police department was notified and a trap laid immediately. The men were taken into custody Tuesday morning and are said to have admitted their offense.

William Nottage, manager of the Fox River Valley Knitting company, was approached in the same way and placed an order for an advertisement costing $35. This check was made (Continued on page 12)

MORE NOMINATION PAPERS ARE FILED

By Associated Press
Madison — Seven more candidates for congress in the Republican primaries to be held in Wisconsin Sept. 5 filed nomination papers with the secretary of state Tuesday, the last day for entering the race.

John N. Welsby, Stevens Point and E. A. Dunn of Wausau, both in the eighth district, were on the list of congressional candidates with Ed. Ward Murray, Milwaukee in the fifth district; John C. Schafer, of Wauwatosa in the fourth district; State Senator W. A. Titus of Fond du Lac, in the sixth district; Conrad Pilz, of Brownstown in the third district and A. C. Kingford of Baraboo in the seventh district.

Nomination papers will be received by the secretary of state until midnight Tuesday night when the time for filing of candidates for all offices closes.

GOLD STAR MOTHERS TO MAKE TOUR OF FRANCE

By Associated Press
New York—The "good will delegation" of 100 young American business women and gold star mothers, organized by the American committee for devastated France, arrived here Tuesday on the first leg of a trip to France. The group, chosen from 50 cities, will make an extended tour of France delivering to the French people messages of friendship.

AFGHAN ARMY CHIEF OF STAFF IS ASSASSINATED

By Associated Press
Tiflis, Republic of Georgia—Djemal Pasha, chief of staff of the Afghan army and former minister of marine in the Turkish unionist government, has been assassinated here. Two Armenians are charged with the crime.

BOWEN APPOINTED FUEL DIRECTOR

St. Paul—Ivan Bowen, state railroad and warehouse commissioner Tuesday was appointed Minnesota fuel administrator by Governor Preus, who also called upon the states of Iowa, Wisconsin and the Dakotas to aid in assuring an ample coal supply from the northwest.

The governor notified the executives of the adjacent states that he is about to circulate all coal dealers in Minnesota to ascertain the supply on hand and also to learn what coal is needed for the winter.

Commissioner Bowen the governor said, will have charge of the collection of this information and will from this time on direct the campaign for coal shipments on the Great Lakes. Senator Kellogg wired the governor Tuesday that he had been assured the Interstate Commerce commission is prepared to issue priority orders for the northwest whenever coal can be moved by the railroads.

BOY ON LONG TOIT ADVERTISE MANITOWOC

Manitowoc — Three young men of this city, Edward Hanson, James Touhey and Louis Dumede, left this week in a modern prairie schooner on a five weeks' trip through some of the midwestern states and Canada. Traveling in a "Lizzie" which has been transformed into an ideal camping outfit, the youths set out on their trip with the stated intention of giving Manitowoc some advertising for the carrier is painted with advertising and slogans of the city.

The truck is fitted with a platform body and can be converted into the old prairie schooner type in a few minutes.

The machine is painted a bright orange color and boldly announces to the world that "We are from Manitowoc." Other inscriptions read "Manitowoc, Aluminum Center of the World," "Great Old Town" and "Have You Seen Our Shipyard?"

WISCONSIN JAILS FILLED TO DOORS BY PROHIBITION

More Than 12,000 Prisoners in County Bastiles During Year Just Ended

Madison — The seventy county jails of Wisconsin held over 4,500 more persons during the past year than at any previous time, a report today by the state board of control shows. A total of 12,151 prisoners were held for varying lengths of time, with 444 male and 22 female inmates in the institutions at the end of the year.

The big factor in this increased jail population was no doubt due to violations of the liquor laws. The board concludes. Within the year, according to the report, 5,450 persons were admitted to the county penal institutions who were awaiting trial, 85 charged with murder in the first and second degree, 21 charged with manslaughter and 32 with assault with intent to kill, while the largest number were accused of violation of the liquor laws, namely, burglary, forgery and abandonment.

Sixty sheriffs reported to the board that of the total number admitted to their jails, 1,631 and boys and 142 girls between 16 and 21 years of age, and 132 were boys and 24 girls under 16 years of age. Of the seventy counties reporting ten said that the largest number of inmates held at any one time exceeded the capacity of the jails.

Out of the total number of inmates of the jails, 707 were removed to penal institutions, 156 were removed to industrial schools, 18 to the central state hospital, 1,905 were let out on bail, 145 were discharged on parole, 14 were discharged on parole, 20 escaped and 9,148 were otherwise discharged.

THE STAGE

All Eyes on "Mahendra" — "Mahendra," the great Mystic Marvel now playing at Fischer's Appleton is continuing to amaze his audiences. His work surprises you by the quick change in manner of his answering the almost impossible. Many people have sent questions to him and had them answered at the theatre, but instead of signing their full name as required, they have hesitated and just given their initials, although this is against "Mahendra's" wishes. In instances of this kind "Mahendra" has given the initials of the sender who used his initials only, and further the town in which they live as well as the street address, this demonstration is given only to prove that it is almost next to impossible to catch "Mahendra."

Tomorrow Matinee, which will be for ladies only, "Mahendra" will entertain guests during extra time in order to answer more questions in fact he may spring a surprise to many, in order to further convince the more skeptical of his phenomenal work. All seats for this performance will be reserved and are now on sale at the box office and Belling's Drug Store.

A complete change of picture program takes place today, the feature offering will be "Spanish Jade" adapted from the well-known novel of the same name, interpreted by such players as David Powell and Marc MacDermott. It is a genuine Spanish love story throbbing with action, filled with thrills, alive with color and the glow of the Spain which never seems to grow new. A Toonerville Comedy and the latest News weekly round out a well balanced program.

Baskets Of Letters Are Pouring In On Mahendra

Letters for Mahendra, the East Indian seer playing at Appleton theatre, poured into the Post-Crescent and Tuesday. It is probable he will be forced to announce that no more questions will be received because it is impossible to answer them all.

Here are a number of answers to questions sent to this paper:

H. K.—What line of work will I be most successful in? Ans.—I see that you will be most successful in business, that is office work.

A. B.—Will I regain better health? When will I marry? Ans.—I see that an operation will be necessary before your health will be regained entirely. You perhaps know the nature of your sickness. Do not think of marriage for sometime yet.

C. W.—Will I ever hear from the man I have in mind? Ans.—If the initials of the one you have in mind are A. H. then you certainly will hear from him as I see the letter very plainly. It will not be very soon.

H. B.—Will we get the car we have in mind? Ans.—No, I do not see that you will get this car, although you will purchase a car later.

I. T.—Is the young man who is now corresponding with me, true? Ans.—This young man is just as true to you as you are to him.

E. C.—When and where will I meet my next friend? Ans.—You will meet your next friend at a social gathering. It seems as though it may be a dance.

M. H. M.—In regard to your health, I find that the present treatment is advisable. You will regain health in time.

E. K.—Will I ever make the voyage that I have in mind? Ans.—It seems that this voyage concerns your native land, but I do not see that you will make the trip until next year.

H. L.—I do not see that you will marry the girl that you have in mind, but will meet one later who will mean more to you.

B. F. S.—I see that you will marry the young man that you are keeping company with.

Miss V. I. H. L.—I see a marriage for you not before the year of 1924.

S. S.—You will find a house late in the month of August. It will be a very good investment.

L. A. J.—I do not see that you will buy a car this year.

L. L. S.—Will I marry the man I am going with, and does he love me? Ans.—I do not see that you will marry this man although he does love you.

L. M. S.—When will I receive a position? Ans.—I see a position for you late in the month of September. It will be of a business nature.

Mr. H. E. V.—Will I ever have a home of my own? Ans.—I see that you will own a home of your own late in the year 1923.

Mr. J. H.—Am I going to leave town soon? Ans.—I do not see a change in residence for you this year. You will leave here but not until late in 1923.

E. C. H.—Am I going to get a position soon and where will I be located? Ans.—You will get a position in Chicago next month and I see that you will be located there.

C. F.—I advise you to forget your divorced husband. I cannot see that you would ever be happy with him.

M. B.—Does the future hold any luck for me? Ans.—Yes you will be in very much better circumstances in the year of 1923, although the remainder of this year does not appear very favorable for you.

F. J. B.—I see that you will be quite successful with your trade and I advise you to continue with it. I do not see a marriage to the one you have in mind.

Begin Cutting Barley

Now that most of the rye and winter wheat is harvested and some of it already threshed, farmers are already beginning cutting barley. Prohibition and the demise of breweries which it was feared would threaten the barley production has not had the effect expected. The yield is still good and still makes excellent chicken feed as well as pig feed.

Baths Closed

Baths at the T. M. C. A. will be opened again Wednesday for the use of members. It was necessary to close this department all day and evening on Tuesday to make repairs to the boiler.

LOCAL GUARDSMEN WIN RIFLE SHOOT

Co. D Men Take Six Out of Ten High Places in Regimental Match

Appleton national guardsmen at Camp Douglas maintained the excellent records of local soldiers of other years when they took six out of the ten high places in the 127th regiment shoot on the rifle range at Camp last Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Capt. Fred W. Hoffman and First Lieut. Ivaux F. Miller were the two high guns. Hoffman scoring 286 and Miller 279. First Sergeant Cloyd Schroeder, Corporal Ray Hagaman and Private C. Radtke won fourth, fifth and sixth places.

Seventh place went to Private Schubert of Co. M, eighth place to Lieut. Clarence Anderson, Menasha, and ninth and tenth to Sergeant Harry Kerrigan of Appleton, and tenth to Priv. C. Jacobson of Co. I.

The Sixty-fourth brigade was reviewed Sunday afternoon by General Holway and the entire command in camp is to be reviewed Thursday by Gov. J. J. Blaine.

Build Parsonage

The new parsonage of the Greenville Lutheran church, of which the Rev. Mr. Kasper is pastor, is going up rapidly. It is expected that the building will be under roof in about two weeks.

Big Pea Crop

The new pea season is now reaching its close. The Hortonville Pea Canning company maintained threshing stations at Mills corners and at Leppia's corners. Farmers harvested a good crop of peas, some of them raising 10 to 15 acres.

Engineer's Case Most Convincing

Says One Bottle Of Trutona Relieved Gastritis, Restored Appetite, Regulated Bowels

"I sure can speak highly of this medicine Trutona," enthusiastically declares Peter Deutsch, engineer, residing at 53 Northwestern avenue, Oshkosh, one of the hundreds of Wisconsin people who have found almost unhopd-for relief through use of this famous tonic.

"For several years," he said, "gas formations had caused me to become terribly swollen and bloated. Everything I ate seemed to disagree with me. But in spite of the severity of my troubles, Trutona wrought a wonderful improvement in my condition. The gas formations have been relieved, the swollen, bloated condition of my stomach also and I particularly notice how much heartier I'm eating nowadays. Yes, sir, I'm glad to recommend Trutona."

"YOU cannot heartily—ENJOY your meals—without fear of suffering afterward if YOU follow Mr. Deutsch's example and take Trutona. No matter how many medicines you have tried without results GIVE TRUTONA A CHANCE. It will prove its remarkable merit in only a few doses. Sold and highly recommended in Appleton at SCHLINTZ BROS. HASKIN PUTS MAN ON TRAIL OF 'GOOD' MAN HUNTING DOG

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau Offers All Kinds of Information

A bloodhound in Appleton at last. This is good news for the police. Some time ago it was suggested that the police department or the county authorities purchase a bloodhound to use in cases of mysterious disappearance rather than send to Waupaca for one. That Appleton may soon have one of these manhunters is seen from a letter of inquiry sent by an Appleton man to Frederic J. Haskin, who conducts the Post-Crescent Question Box. He wants to know where he can buy a "good" bloodhound and judging from the way he writes he means business.

A Hortonville man wants to take Horace Greeley's advice. Where can he get a job on the harvest fields? To whom must he write? Mr. Haskin tells him to do.

A sport fan who very likely wants to settle a bet asks for the real name of Batling Nelson, the Terrible Dane who wrestled the lightweight title from Joe Gans and then lost it to Ad Wolgast. His name is Oscar Batling Mathew Nelson, he is told.

A housewife of Menasha asks for directions how to make a rose jar. For the benefit of others interested in the same subject, the information is reprinted.

"Gather the roses each morning and partially dry. Place in a jar a layer of rose leaves and a sprinkling of salt. Turn and shake frequently. After the mixture has become ripened, the following spices may be added:

"1/4 oz. of mace; 1/4 oz. of allspice and cloves; 1/4 nutmeg; 1/2 oz. of cinnamon; 1 oz. orris root, dried lavender flowers and any sweet scented blossoms or clovers may be added; also lemon extract or any sweet scented flavors or oils which may be desired. The jar should be kept closed usually, but when a room is wanted to be perfumed, add a few drops of alcohol and leave the cover of the jar off."

Mr. Haskin will answer all questions mailed to the following address: The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. The inquirer must give his full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage.

DECIDED REDUCTION IN CLAIMS FOR FREIGHT LOSS

Loss on damage claims on freight on all railroads for the first quarter of 1922 shows a reduction of 49.2 per cent over 1921, according to bulletin of the Wisconsin Traffic league received at the office of the Chamber of Commerce.

According to the bulletin carriers are handling claims more rapidly than ever before and now is the time for shippers to press claims for settlement. Claims for over charges during the period of government control must be filed with the interstate commerce commission before Sept. 1, these claims will be somewhat delayed as the commission is now receiving them at the rate of 500 a day and has about 100,000 ahead. These claims are simply filed with the commission and then returned to the sender to be presented to the carrier. If the claim is refused by the carrier it may be ordered paid by the commission.

CAMP WILL MAKE A HE-BOY OUT OF ANY YOUNGSTER

Scout Executive Promises to Prepare Youngsters for Heavy School Work

Come on, you drawing room boy! If you're tired of the parlor crowd, join the boy scouts and go with them to Camp Onaway, and you'll come back a he-boy. And you scout, if you have any red blood in you, go to Camp Onaway—you'll come back a boy and a half. That's plain philosophy from your scout executive.

Camp life is one of the best character, mind and body builders known, is the belief of H. P. Buck. It is perfectly in keeping with the scout oath to keep one's self physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight, the executive holds. If the boy is timid, let him get out into the woods and the water. For the boy that is puny and anemic, the fresh air, bathing beach, wholesome food and recreation of camping is one of the best of medicines. It is also a good tonic for lazy bones. It makes a lad handy of hand and hardy of heart. It teaches him industry, cleanliness, order and purpose. Any boy that goes to camp, says Mr. Buck, will come back refreshed and in fine shape for the fall school work.

No parents need worry about the safety or health of their boys, while in camp, he said. The executive will be directly in charge and will have competent assistants who will keep a careful check on every boy in camp. Life guards will keep vigil at the beach. A first rate cook has been engaged and none but wholesome food will be prepared. The equipment is in conformity with sanitary regulations and the strictest cleanliness will be insisted upon in every tent.

LAKE PROPERTY IS MOUNTING IN VALUE

The shores of Lake Winnebago which formerly were the haunts of fishermen and hunters are now rapidly being transformed into summer resorts. Large plots of land are being divided into lots and sold at a premium. A few years ago lake-side property was not considered of much value. Now lake shore values seem to be mounting steadily. The start was made when the tired business man who could not sacrifice a great deal of time to spend at northern camps and resorts conceived the plan of moving his desk nearer to the landscape at home. A few bought up property on the lake shore and built summer cottages and hundreds of business men of Fox river valley cities are now spending their summers in this fashion.

OSHKOSH-FOND DU LAC ROAD IS COMPLETED

The three mile section of the Oshkosh-Fond du Lac road, which has been under improvement this summer, has been completed. Commissioner Binning of Winnebago-co. expects this new strip of concrete will be open to traffic within three weeks. About two miles of the new road was used last week, that is, the section north of the Oshkosh golf grounds. To get to this section motorists go out the Oregon-st. road until they reach a cross road marked "To Eweco Park," then go east until they reach the new concrete at the Graf bridge. Dirt shoulders now are being constructed on each side of the concrete.

No Legal Difficulties Involved In Changing Names Of City Streets

Many Street Names Have Been Changed in the Past and Some Streets Have Disappeared Entirely, George Richard Says.

"Don't worry about legal entanglements, if you wish to change the names of Appleton's streets," is the advice of George T. Richard, manager of the Outagamie-co. Loan and Title company. Mr. Richard recently evolved a system of street naming of his own, the feature of which was numerical and alphabetical streets and avenues. The plan was published in the Post-Crescent several months ago.

Although the plan suggested by Mr. Richard differs somewhat from that proposed by the city engineer, he maintains that renaming the streets under any system would cause but little confusion in drawing up legal documents. Any street naming system should necessitate no change in the description of the realty properties, he said, if the deeds describe the properties according to plat, block and lot. Instead of describing a lot, for instance, as "from the intersection of Spring and Harriman sts." the proper method would be "beginning at the northeast corner of block 4, Hyde and Harriman's addition," etc.

PAINLESS OPERATION
The operation on the city's arteries should be quite painless in view of the fact that street names have already undergone many changes since the city was incorporated, Mr. Richard said. It is not generally known that the old Durkee-st. was an east and west street, instead of a north and south street, as it is today. The name of Washington-st. has been changed three times, that thoroughfare now bearing its fourth name. Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh-sts., formerly were north and south streets. What is more, a number of streets, not names merely, but streets have disappeared entirely.

The principal thoroughfare of the city, College-ave. was once known as Wisconsin-ave. Washington-st. was once called Durkee-st. and passed through the stages of Spain-st. and Edwards-st. before it assumed its present name. The former name of Franklin-st. was Menasha-st. and before that it was called Park-st.

FIRST MAP IN 1849
An old map of Appleton in the office of the Loan and Title company, recorded Jan. 16, 1849, shows that Superior-st. was then known as First-st., Appleton-st. was Second-st., Oneida-st. was Third-st., Morrison-st. was Fourth-st., Durkee-st. was Fifth-st., Drew-st. was Sixth-st. and Park-ave. was Seventh-st.

In the course of years Cass-st. took on the name of Smith-st., old Division-st. on the east side became Union-st. and Agry-st. was changed to South-st. Although Alton-st. now is on the east side, a portion of the present Prospect-st. was once known by that name. Superior-st. carried the name of Brown-st. Park-ave. was Potter-st. and what is now Oneida-st. was after outgrowing the name of Third-st. known at Garritson-st.

NO SENTIMENTAL CLAIM
Names of Appleton streets have undergone many changes and the city can endure a few more, if the change will systematize the names, Mr. Richard believes. The argument that popular sentiment attached to the old historic streets would not bear to have names changed cannot be respected, he says, in view of the fact a great number of street names have already been changed several times. If the city is to adopt a new street naming and numbering the time is ripe now. Public opinion is strongly in favor of it, he has observed in years of contact with buyers and sellers of real estate.

MR. RICHARD'S SYSTEM

The system favored by Mr. Richard in brief is as follows: All east and west thoroughfares north of College-ave. would be called avenues and numbered consecutively, such as First-ave., Second-ave., etc. All east and west thoroughfares south of College-ave. would be called streets and numbered consecutively, such as First-st., Second-st., etc. All thoroughfares parallel with Oneida-st. on the east side would be named streets and arranged alphabetically, such as

EVERY ONE GETS COPY OF SCHOOL SURVEY REPORT

A small army of boys on Monday under the direction of Principal Lee C. Rasey, began distributing the copies of the report of the state survey committee which the common council had printed. Every home in the city is to receive a copy which relates in detail the findings of the committee with reference to the school situation in Appleton.

Adams-st., Byron-st., Clark-st., etc. Thoroughfares west of Oneida-st. would be named avenues and also arranged alphabetically, such as Alton-ave., Bateman-ave., etc. With such a system in use, Mr. Richard affirms, any stranger could find his way about the city with ease.

JUDGE GRAASS FOR CONGRESS

The filing of nomination papers for Judge Henry Graass of Green Bay for congress from this congressional district constitutes a call which, we think, he will accept. The call was gotten out only about ten days ago, so that its actual circulation was over a period of but a week, yet it went into every county of the district and in that brief time more than double the percentage of signatures required by law was secured. The number approximated 2200 and all of this number could easily have been secured in Brown county alone in a couple of days had the law not required the other counties of the district to join in the call and limited the number from his home county. The papers were circulated without any previous notice or request by scores of men who gladly and enthusiastically joined in the undertaking. There is nothing in the call that smacks of a political movement or of partisan purposes. It is a spontaneous proposal in which the people have heartily entered. Joining in the call are members of all shades of political opinion and affiliation.

The call is a striking testimonial to the popularity of Judge Graass and a tribute to the high esteem in which he is held. Ever since his name was mentioned in connection with congress early last spring, he has consistently refused to take any part in the plan to send him to Washington. He has not encouraged the movement or given it the slightest support. He has insisted from the beginning that his acceptance of the nomination would depend solely on whether the people desired him to serve them in this capacity. In the meantime, despite his refusal to promote his candidacy in any way, the conviction has been growing in the public mind that the able Green Bay jurist was the one outstanding figure in the district who could best serve its interests at the national capital. This belief finally culminated in the spontaneous circulation of nomination papers in his behalf.

The call for Judge Graass, therefore, is purely and emphatically a call from the people. It has developed and has been carried to legal completion independently of the Judge himself. He has, as we have said, had no part in it. It is a case in which the office is seeking the man, and not the man the office, and is a refreshing contrast to the scramble for public place that is the general rule. It is a call of which any man in public life could be proud, and could accept with satisfaction and appreciation. This we expect Judge Graass to do. Moreover, if he accepts the call we have no doubt that he will be the next congressman for the ninth district. He is so conspicuously desirable for public service of this kind that there should be no question about his nomination and election.

THE PEOPLE ARE SAVING THEIR MONEY

Statistics compiled by the Association of Life Insurance Presidents indicate a gain of $186,000,000, or six per cent, of new insurance issued in the first half of the present year. The total new business for the period was $3,143,000,000. Of similar significance was the large gain in savings and the large increase in the number of savings accounts all through the business depression, in all parts of the United States. In the latter half of last year workmen who had accumulated capital began to invest it in homes of their own, and at this time more home-building is under way than ever before.

Still another evidence of development of thrift among the people is their careful buying. Most persons have been looking for bargains for two years, and they are still doing so. They purchase luxuries, as well as necessities, but they plan and do their buying with more judgment than formerly. Many more people than ever before have learned the value of money and the necessity and advantage of accumulating capital. Rent profiteering has taught them that they can live more cheaply, comfortably and independently in their own homes. Unemployment had demonstrated to them the duty and assurance of taking precautions against the rainy day. Capital derived from life insurance has illustrated that it is the simplest and surest means of providing opportunity for children and competence for dependents.

Speculation is chance, in which few win and the great majority lose. In the long run even the few who win are final losers. The only reliable method of building up capital, and with capital of becoming wealthy or secure, is by investment of money. Capital is the result of saving, and saving is the primitive form of investment. The three best channels of investment are the savings account, the home, and life insurance.

PRESIDENT'S PLAN FOR ARBITRATION

What objection can the mine operators and workers have to President Harding's plan to effect a comprehensive adjustment of the coal mining industry through a national coal commission? Could any institution be so reliable as such a commission properly constituted? And, in truth, why should not the federal government permanently reform this industry?

The president says in his message to state governors that he proposed a national coal commission to regulate wage and working conditions. "It was proposed," he explains, "to make the commission the final authority on all disputes until next March," and meanwhile the commission was to inaugurate a searching investigation into every phase of the coal industry, in order to recommend the way to maintained understanding between workmen and employer, to promote steady employment and assure a continuous and ample fuel supply.

It happens that the coal industry is, like the transportation industry, a public utility. Coal is a natural resource. It is a necessity for domestic and industrial fuel. Business cannot get along without it, nor can people live without it. Furthermore, as the coal supply must meet requirements, coming generations have a vital interest in it.

The federal government is the power that should investigate, supervise and regulate the coal industry. Representing the people, and also the operators and workers, it can be fair. As it is a representative government, it can be trusted, and if we could not trust our own government, what establishment could we trust?

It is the duty of the operators and workers to follow the government's instructions. They are agents of the people. Both are entitled to fair treatment, as both have distinctive rights. But the public likewise has rights.

The operators and workers must appreciate the rights of the people and respect the government's authority. They must abandon the idea that they can trample on the public's rights and resent the government's efforts to serve the people. President Harding's plan is logical and fair. There should be a permanent national coal commission. This commission should have the final power of regulation of the coal industry. Its decisions should be determinative.

Woman Mayors

Mildred Adams writes in the American City of fifteen women mayors in the United States. The towns over which they preside range in size from Rochester, O., with a population of 145, to St. Peter, Minn., where the population is 4,245. The fifteen women mayors are well distributed over the country. Some of these women were elected because they voluntarily went into politics and tried for office. Others were drafted. Mrs. A. K. Gault, of St. Peter, was appointed by a council of men after the man elected mayor refused to qualify. Mrs. Abbie Howe Forest, mayor of Thayer, Kans., and five other women were nominated as candidates for city offices and elected over two other tickets.

Mrs. Grace Miller, mayor of Jackson, Wyo., has a council of five women helping her. Dr. Anna Kaukonen, mayor of Fairport, O., who is twenty-three years old, is a graduate physician. She had authority to appoint a chief of police, a board of health and a chemist. She took all these powers to herself. In her capacity as chief of police she considers the menace of "bootleg" liquor to the health of the community, and as town chemist she analyzes the stuff. Find it bad as a chemist she then warns against it as the board of health. Miss Adams has found, in investigating the work of the women mayors, that they think in terms of municipal housekeeping. Men think of municipal problems in terms of engineering, she says, but the women officials consider the town merely an enlarged family to be educated, clothed, fed and kept orderly and in good health.—INDIANAPOLIS NEWS.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.
Noted Physician and Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual case cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

How To Amuse the Doctor

Here's a lady who has discovered a very simple way to amuse the doctor, and I recommend her method to many other ladies in the same predicament:

My Dear Dr. Brady:
In a recent talk you said that 'any man or woman less than fifty years of age ought to find no great difficulty in doing a dozen forward and backward rolls every day.' I cannot testify as to the backward rolls, but you may be interested to know that 40 years from the time I had turned a somersault I began again under the stimulus of your persuasion, and at 57 I rejoice in both the exercise and the ability to accomplish it. Many times I am obliged to curl up in a ball and flop over just to prove to doubting friends that I really can do it.

I began somersaulting at your suggestion two years ago. Would you advise stopping the somersaults at 80 or thereabouts? That will give me 20 more years!

Your Truly C. L.

P. S.—My husband is a physician and watches my morning performance with much amusement. This is a fine letter, postscript and all, except for one error. The lady speaks of 'somersaulting' as 'exercise.' Somersaulting is a mere mechanical procedure, a very beneficial one if carried out daily, at least for folks who quarrel so much with their circulation and digestion and all that sort of thing, but let us not try to persuade ourselves that somersaulting is exercise. Most of us need exercise every day whether we somersault or not. Speaking of amusing the doctor, now that I am on the subject, I am greatly amused every little while by some fat woman who writes in to say that her 'kennel' treatment is no good, for she has rolled the length of the flat nearly every day for six weeks and lost not an ounce. Queried, persistent some folks are in the belief that somersaults will reduce or that I have ever so much as hinted that somersaults will reduce.

The correspondent's husband isn't the first doctor for whose amusement I have been responsible. I might publish quite an imposing list of physicians who have first been amused, then challenged and finally converted to some of the foolish notions propagated here.

I hope the lady will not try to break off the rolling habit at 80. It is a hard habit to break, confirmed rollers declare.

QUESTIONS TO ANSWERS

July Hay Fever

Can you suggest any treatment or preventive for the kind of hay fever which usually comes about July? What do you say of using some good balm in the nose?—P. D. E.

Answer—Many cases of ragweed pollenitis begin about then or a bit later. Have you had the inoculation test made to determine what plant or weed is responsible in your case? That is the best plan, and when the causative pollen has been identified a course of hypodermic injections of suitably attenuated pollen extract will give the best satisfaction. Some sufferers find much relief from the use of boric acid solution, about a heaping teaspoonful of boric acid in a pint of boiled water, at about body temperature, as a spray for the nose and a gargle, many times in the day through the season. Others prefer to use some bland oil, spraying the nose with a vaporizer.

But Man Is No Animal

Since all animals, except man live in their natural state 10 times the period required to attain maturity. I believe man has a natural heritage of at least 200 years and he would reach this reward by a well balanced scientific physical and mental training.—J. C. F.

Answer—Some good reader sent me the other day a description of the daily exercises taken by "The Tiger" of France. It seems that M. Clemenceau, famous for his abounding energy and alertness past the third score and ten station, devotes 20 or 30 minutes daily to a system of exercises not unlike the Brady's exercises. And the great war premier takes these exercises as a natural. Great stuff. Trouble is so many men are not animals and always imagine or rather imagine they must always have something on. This is just one small feature. We have a great many reforms to make before we can hope to regain that natural heritage. The ultra-refinements of civilized existence make us old at what should be our prime.

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

CURIOSITY OVER PREMIER'S VISIT

At a time when one of the stupendous problems of diplomacy is to maintain a disarming interest attached to a proposal for a treaty formalizing a state of actual disarmament that has existed for over a century. The Canadian Premier, W. L. MacKenzie King, desires to expand into a formal treaty the old Rush-Bagot agreement between the United States and the Dominion. Whether such a move will indeed promote the cause of disarmament and get a standard of international fellowship that all the world must recognize, or whether it will merely open to diplomatic review—and perhaps bungling—a friendly relation that the most skillfully drawn treaty could not strengthen, is a matter on which American editors are far from agreed.

Premier King's proposal is a reminder of the NEW HAVEN JOURNAL COURIER suggests, "that the absence of fortifications of every kind along the three thousand miles of border line that separate the United States from the Dominion of Canada is due to an agreement." Doubtless, it says, we learned this fact in school, "but like a number of equally interesting things" we came in time to forget all about it, so that the tradition of a defenseless northern frontier has been accepted "in some mysterious way as an act of God to be pointed at as an example of what should be done in the world if universal peace is to be achieved."

For the matter of that, the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL replies, the Rush-Bagot agreement "is literally only a strip of paper . . . on it's face hardly more than a diplomatic memorandum." But the paper emphasizes, "no covenant in any form ever possessed the elements of a solemn and enduring obligation to a degree greater than has been demonstrated by a century of experience under the Rush-Bagot agreement." While the history of boundary lines "is largely the history of wars, human suffering, pillaging, maiming, and destruction," as the LOUISVILLE COURIER JOURNAL says, the short chapter "relating to the American-Canadian line" might well be "inscribed in letters of gold for the history of the longest frontier on the planet" as another writer puts it, has been that of continued friendship, good will, and peaceful arbitration of such differences as have arisen.

But for that very reason many American editors object to any manner of tinkering with an international code that has come to be "one of the landmarks of civilization." The proposal recalls to the BOSTON TRANSCRIPT "the epitaph of a certain country burying ground: 'I was well, I wanted to be better; I called in the doctor, and here I am.' And the TRANSCRIPT goes on to say that the war-dog has slept on the shores of the Great Lakes for more than a hundred years. It is unnecessary to wake him up for the mere purpose of putting him to sleep again." Invariably, the SPRINGFIELD REPUBLICAN asserts, "public sentiment has been hostile to any tampering with the agreement. It seems conservative to say that public sentiment remains unchanged in this respect," while the PHILADELPHIA RECORD feels that it will require "some compelling reason to bring about sentiment for a change now."

Indeed border papers express a pronounced opposition to the King idea. "A perfectly functioning instrument cannot be improved upon," declares the GRAND RAPIDS HERALD, and the suggestion that it needs revision "gives rise to suspicion." The LANSING STATE JOURNAL confesses vaguely "as to the meaning of permanency," if an agreement "is not quite permanent after 106 years." Back of it all, in the opinion of many, is Canadian policy. The Premier "has many back fences to attend to," the GRAND RAPIDS PRESS charges, and "he needs a few scalps of achievement to tie the record," while the BALT LAKE TRIBUNE surmises that "King may be essaying a little of his own in the disarmament market for reasons which may become apparent in the next Dominion general election." "In the purview of statesmen," the PITTSBURGH GAZETTE TIMES concedes, "there may be valid reasons why the old should be supplanted by something new," and the SYRACUSE JOURNAL admits that "perhaps Mr. King has some good reasons for advocating a new treaty," but both papers feel that the inevitable fate of the two countries accepted the old treaty—why, asks the latter, should it be even implied "that we might not always trust each other, by drawing up a new treaty?"

Nevertheless there are elements in the situation which makes the old agreement obsolete, in the opinion of other writers. "Many new problems are confronting the governments of the two countries," says the Adirondic (Mich.) TELEGRAM, "not the least of which are those of the lake fisheries and the new requirements of prohibition and enforcement." The urgency of the latter phase calls for revision, for "as the agreement now stands," according to the ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS, "it is almost impossible for the United States to combat the bootleggers without violating the spirit of the agreement," and as a matter of fact, the WHEELING REGISTER reports, "America is today violating the treaty through the maintenance of armed craft to capture rum runners." "Then there is the question of the St. Lawrence Waterway, a matter which," the MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL believes lies at the back of the Premier's mind in his efforts to negotiate a new agreement, and which the WINNEPEG TRIBUNE also sees in Mr. King's journey to Washington, for, as the NEW YORK POST notes,

"tackling that issue now rather than later consolidates the Premier's position at home."

But aside from these practical considerations, from the point of view of sentiment "there is no reason" the ARKANSAS DEMOCRAT contends, "why the agreement should not be made permanent through a formal treaty," and as many see it, every reason why it should be. The KALAMAZOO GAZETTE declares that "it is deserving of a dignified place among the great treaties of the world," while the BOSTON GLOBE feels that "the most effective peace agreement in the world" should in this way "be made into a monument for all mankind to see," for "as an object lesson it will be well to place the agreement where it will be as conspicuous as a beacon on a mountain top."

RUSSIAN CHURCH CONGRESS
FRAGUE—The PRAGER TAGBLATT speaks of a Russian church Congress to be held next month, for the purpose of preserving the unity of the orthodox church. It says:

"A general church Congress is to be held in August in Moscow for the purpose of preserving the unity of the orthodox church and trying to do away with the subtle differences existing between the Russian clergy. Thus by the indirect way of the greatest political and social upheaval within the memory of man, it would seem as if a kind of reformation was about to take place, an event of the greatest cultural importance. The assembling of a counter-congress by the emigrant priests proves that radical events of this kind are feared."

"The order to give up the valuable church treasures in order to buy corn and grain for the starving people, led to violent opposition. Priests, who also politically were rooted to the old Czar rule, exhorted their followers to opposition. To deprive the Church of its gold and its glory was blasphemy, they said, and gave vent to their hatred of the ungodly Bolsheviks. The foolishness of Lenin's rule shows itself most clearly in this case. The Bolsheviks conceived a special case for the church, and the priests and pious people accuse the reactionary clergy and especially the patriarch Tichon, whose circulars incited to opposition of the 'church robbers,' of impious want of love toward their own terribly suffering people. Numbers of outrages took place but, strange to say, the tide of indignation did not rise high. The Bolsheviks soon had the situation in hand, because masses of believers and nearly all the young clergy were on their side. Investigations led to a number of death sentences, mostly of political reactionaries, priests, patriarch Tichon was called as witness, and it was not difficult to prove that his religious zeal was aiming at the collapse of the Bolshevik rule and restoration of czarism."

The government has now taken legal proceedings against him. The Archbishop of Canterbury, as head of the English Church has protested against the oppression in the Russian government, saying that the accusation was unjust, that Tichon had offered church help to fight against the famine. But it was a weak attempt to save him in view of the counter-revolutionary ideas and treacherous secret activity. The answer of the Soviets, was as may easily be imagined, that the English church had not opposed the blockade nor the killing of hundreds of Russian soldiers; they took the part of czarists and mammonist clergy; but they did not care about the masses of starving and dying people and the majority of the Russian clergy.

It will soon be seen whether the Congress in August will undertake further steps towards puritanizing the orthodox church."

THE AUTO BABY CARRIAGE

London—Baby has joined the ranks of the motorists. The petrol perambulator has arrived, and nursemaids may have to combine their usual duties with that of a chauffeur, the Daily Mail says.

The perambulator, which is a patent of Messrs. Duple, of Birmingham, and is called the "Perambulator" is propelled by a small petrol-engine fixed to an extra wheel. This extra wheel is attached just behind the back of the perambulator, and on it are footrests for the nurse-chauffeur. The controlling levers are fitted to the perambulator handles, and the nurse can start or stop the perambulator without removing her hands.

Baby will travel 4 miles an hour in his little motor-car and his slumbers will not be disturbed by the vibration of the motor, which does not effect the body of the perambulator.

SEARCH FOR LOST PICTURES
London—A mysterious announcement has just been made by the Frankfurt police says the Berlin correspondent of the Times. It concerns the theft of a number of valuable pictures from a railway train going from Brussels to Germany on November 16, 1914.

The pictures included a portrait of the Infanta of Spain by Velasquez, two by Rubens—a "Rape of Delianira" and a portrait of his wife—a man's head by Van Dyck, a Paul Veronese, an Adrian Brouwer, and twenty-four other old masters.

No explanation is given as to whom the pictures belonged, where they came from, or where they were going, but it is highly suggestive that they were among a quantity of other luggage belonging to Germans escaping from Belgium in a train transporting the Second German Guards Division. A reward of one million marks is offered for information which will lead to the discovery of the thieves.

New Mine Safety Device

Washington, D. C.—As the result of experiments made by the Bureau of Mines, the geophone, a novel instrument used amid the risk and slaughter of the World War for the detection of earth and rock sounds made in the construction of military mines and tunnels, promises to become an active factor in the saving of the lives of miners entombed as the result of fires and explosions. In the course of tests conducted in the bureau's experimental coal mine near Pittsburgh, Pa., blows with a sledge on the coal face were heard, by means of the geophone, at a distance of 650 feet, with various rooms and entries intervening. On a suspended pipe line, light hammering with the knuckles was detected at a distance of 1500 feet. Ordinary talking and singing could be detected through 150 feet of solid coal. By the use of two geophones, one instrument to each ear, it is possible to determine the direction from which a sound is coming through the earth, and thus to locate the approximate position of the entombed miner. The bureau gives recommendations for a signal code of poundings by sledges or other means which will establish communication between the rescuing party and those entombed.

Another promising use of the geophone is in the location of leaks in water pipes. By means of the instrument, it is possible to hear water circulating in the pipes of ordinary city mains situated 10 to 15 feet below the surface. Tests conducted at a busy corner in the downtown district of Pittsburgh located a leak in a water main which the water company had for two weeks vainly sought to detect.

The mine geophone is sensitive, yet extremely simple and easily portable. The instrument was invented by the French during the war to detect sapping and underground mining operations. It was developed by the United States Engineers, and the instruments now used by the Bureau of Mines were made according to plans drawn by them, except for the introduction of different diaphragms. The geophone is essentially a small seismograph as it embodies the same principles as the ponderous apparatus that records earthquake tremors. It really consists of a lead weight suspended between two elastic diaphragms cutting across a small airtight box. All the instrument is placed on the ground and anyone is pounding or digging in the vicinity, energy is transmitted as wave motion to the earth, and the earth waves shake the geophone case. The geophone, therefore, transforms the earth wave into an air wave, which is heard by the ear as sound, and at the same time magnifies the wave so that the sound is louder than if the ear were placed in direct contact with the earth.

The observations of the Bureau of Mines indicate that the geophone should be quite useful in the location of mine fires. Usually a mine fire makes enough noise, either by drawing air or by breaking off slate and coal, to be heard for a considerable distance through the coal and even through the strata above. The distance that these sounds can be heard depends a great deal on the nature of the strata above the mine, yet the sounds originate at a mine fire should be detected through 100 to 300 feet of cover and through 500 to 800 feet of coal.

Geophones supply a quick and fairly accurate method of mine surveying. If two tunnels were being brought together from any direction, the progress of the tunnels could be observed by means of the geophones, and their relative positions determined. Another application of the possibilities of the instrument in mine surveying is in the prevention of accidents in blasting through. If two tunnels are approaching each other, or are passing a short distance apart, it is necessary to determine the relative location in order that men may be warned to keep away from the point of danger. As the sounds transmitted through the geophone are so characteristic, frequent observation would enable a trained observer to follow the progress of the work in the opposite tunnel. He would thus be able to tell when blasts were to be fired.

The manifest advantages of the geophone for use in mine rescue work has led the Bureau of Mines to place the instruments on its mine-rescue cars. They are constantly being called to assist in the rescue of entombed men at mine fires and explosions.

Details of the bureau's experiments are given in Technical Paper 277, "Application of the geophone to mining operations," just issued.

THE QUESTION BOX

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Eskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medicinal, and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. Why are more home runs made nowadays in baseball? R. E.
A. Men connected with big league baseball say that a definite answer cannot be given. Contributing factors are the lively ball in use at present; the physical condition of the men making the home runs; and their intensive training and experience.

Q. What three railroads in the United States have the longest mileage? J. C. Y.
A. The Bureau of Railway Economics says that the Chicago & Alton, the Erie, and the Southern Railway of 16,104 miles. The Southern Railway of the United States has 15,952.3 miles of tracks and the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy 13,394.83.

Q. What will remove a chocolate stain from a tablecloth? N. N. B.

A. The word is derived from the Chinese and literally means mountains eat.

Q. Can the average farmer afford to use pure-bred males for breeding stock? M. F. T.
A. The average farmer should use nothing else because such an animal possesses the characteristics desired in market animals and is the result of a plan of breeding that he transmits those qualities to his offspring.

Q. What is the employment of such expressions as black pitch and green verdure called? A. H. D.
A. Pleonasm consists in the repetition of an idea implied in some other word or element in the sentence.

May Peterson Mows Lawn As Friends Mourn

While friends of May Peterson, nationally known grand opera singer formerly of Oshkosh, were mourning her death reported to have taken place in Portland, the singer herself was mowing the lawn, stopping and recovering rapidly from her recent injuries in a taxi collision. Miss Peterson said that she has been reported married and engaged to all sorts of men, many of whom she did not know, but the sensation of reading her own obituary was a new and not altogether pleasant experience.

Miss Peterson's Portland physician has ordered her to work to take the kinks out of her injured shoulder and lawn mowing was her first attempt. She plans to go into the mountains later in the summer and get plenty of the hard work which she says can be had for the asking.

Happiness In Home Is Largely A Matter Of View Point, Woman Says

Workingman's Wife Blames Low Wages for Much of the Trouble in Many Families—Gets Mighty Little Pleasure.

Two more women tell their story of $2,600 a year, one claiming it can be done, while the other, who tries to manage on less, has a hard time and no pleasure. Write what you think about $2,600 a year as a comfortable living wage to the contest editor. These women write:

Will it create more discontent to hear of so many who find $2,600 a necessary or even meager sum to live on? A large percentage of the people must live on very much less. If all these were uncomfortable and thus unhappy, what a miserable world this would be. Yet these people are not all unhappy.

It is largely what we expect of life that creates or mars our comfort and happiness. If our happiness consists in a round of pleasures and idleness, $2,600 may even be a small sum to live on, but if, as Longfellow says, "Life is real, life is earnest, and the grave is not its goal," then we can get along with very much less and be comfortable and happy, too.

Dozens of families could be mentioned who have comfortable homes acquired with an income of $1,000 to $1,500 per year. We own a good modern home acquired with very much less than $2,600. How did we do it? We did not think we had to have everything at once, but built and improved as we could afford it. Next, keeping an account of our expenditures helped us to see our folly in spending carelessly. Our book shows that for six adults, $980 per year paid for plenty of wholesome food, light, fuel and literature. $500 should clothe the six, not extravagantly but well. $1,000 for taxes, $500 for necessary repairs and incidentals, the sum of $2,600 for pleasure or "rainy days."

A Housekeeper.
HERE IS ANOTHER
Dear Editor: In reading over these letters to the Contest Editor, it makes me think that some people just imagine that they are living over lived comfortably and had to go back to the way all working men's wives have to live, they wouldn't think that they could live comfortably on $2,600 a year.

The trouble with most women is that they like to make themselves big, while at the same time they are really half starved. I have four children and my husband does not earn $2,600 a year. Now, that is just where all the family trouble comes in. A man thinks his wife ought to make ends meet on his salary for which he has worked so hard and from which he receives no pleasure. A few days after pay day, when the wife has all or most of her bills paid and there is no money in the house until the next pay day, the man grows at his wife and wants to know what she has done with all the money.

A man never realizes how much things cost and can never believe that a grocery bill can run up to $25 or $30 in two weeks. Besides, there is the butcher and some other bills. Would you believe that my husband and myself have not got a new suit in these eight years that we are married? It was lucky for us that we had a lot of clothes before we were married. I do all my own sewing and make over my old clothes and sew for the children. I have never been to a movie or had any enjoyment for seven years. It seems as if I cannot hold out much longer. Something ought to be done so a working man's wife could have a little pleasure. I have never had any tea parties, could not think of them. Nor could I buy any flowers for our home; the only flowers I ever have are wild flowers and those from our own garden in the summer. I am not the only woman who could write a letter like this for most every working man's wife will agree with me.

I think $2,600 ought to be the least any workingman should get in order to stop a lot of this family trouble that you read so much about.

A Working Man's Wife.

INVITE ALL U. W. STUDENTS TO DINE

About 100 invitations have been sent out to graduates and former students of the University of Wisconsin living in Outagamie co. for the alma mater banquet and reunion that is to be held at the Sherman house Wednesday evening. H. P. Buck has been appointed chairman of the arrangements. The invitations were mailed to persons contained on the list of alumni and former students furnished by the university. It was found necessary to add a number of names that had been omitted but it is feared that a number of persons will still be missed. Those who are interested in the university are requested to mail their reservations to H. P. Buck.

Professor Gardner, teacher of English, has been secured to address the reunion. He will speak on the affairs of the university and the Memorial Union building. Motion pictures of campus scenes will be shown.

SWIMMING LESSONS TO END MONDAY EVENING

Swimming lessons for beginners will be given by Appleton Womans club on Monday evening for the last time. The lesson begins at 5 o'clock but those who wish to learn the elementary principles of swimming may come at anytime from 5 to 6 o'clock. Married women who wish to learn to swim are especially urged to take advantage of the last lesson this season.

Six young men have enrolled for the citizens' military training camp at Camp Custer, Mich. through Alfred Bradford, county enrollment chairman, and will leave next week. They are Lawrence K. and Robert Lochlin, 657 Union-st. Milo C. Singler, Shiocton, R. B. Clark, Second-ave., Harold Bries, 515 Franklin-st., and George E. Morris, 1301 Lawrence-st. Several others sent applications direct to the war department.

Most of the entrants will leave on the 7:50 train for Chicago on the morning of Aug. 2. They will leave Chicago at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and reach Camp Custer by 7:20 in the evening. Noncommissioned officers will be at the depot to guide them upon arrival.

It is not a requirement of the government that the young men go in a group. They may depart at any time they wish but must be in camp by 4 o'clock on the afternoon of Aug. 3. The camp will be in session for a month, giving training that will qualify the young men for reserve army officers if they desire.

MORE PIPES ARRIVE FOR CITY'S NEW WATERMAINS

Shipment of several cars of pipe for water mains which was ordered a long time ago is now complete except for one car. Six cars of six inch pipe have been received within the last few days and employees of the water department are engaged in moving the pipe directly to the streets where new mains are to be laid. The delay in the shipment of the pipe held up the work of the department for some time. As a result the department is about a month behind in the laying of mains.

The meeting of the Live Wire Class of Emanuel Evangelical Sunday school which was announced for Tuesday evening is to be held Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Gladys Stolt, Brewster-st.

RAILROAD CLERKS TO REMAIN ON JOB

There will not be a strike of railroad clerks, freight handlers and station employees in the service of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad. At least not for some time.

Representatives of the unions, in conference with the railroad management, have reached an agreement to resubmit their wage case to the United States Railroad labor board for reconsideration and the railroad company has waived its 30-day clause in its working agreement in that respect. Clerks also say that the railroad company has agreed to restore many of the privileges and working advantages which recently were taken away.

Station employees and clerks here believe a satisfactory agreement will be reached which will remove all strike danger.

HASSMAN ATTENDING F. R. A. CONVENTION

Wenzel Hassman, a member of the official staff of the Fraternal Reserve association, left Sunday for Madison where he will attend the biennial convention of the Wisconsin council which opens on Wednesday. Mrs. Hassman and son, Harold, went with Mr. Hassman as far as Milwaukee and will go from there to Chicago.

The election of state officers and delegates to the Supreme council and other business will come before the convention. The state council of Michigan is having its convention in Escanaba, August 2 and 3 this year, but both councils will vote this year to have the conventions at Marinette and Menominee next year and in the same week.

END MANY BLUEBERRIES
A party of blueberry pickers have returned from the vicinity of Eagle river and Crandon. Mr. and Mrs. Chris Fetting, Mr. and Mrs. John Stecker and Mrs. Henry Rusene brought back nearly 100 quarts. The blueberry crop in that region does not seem to be quite so heavy as in former years, they report, but the berries are very luscious and of a large size.

People Minding Whistle; Result Is No Accidents

Not an accident occurred at the Oneida and Appleton intersections of College ave. during the busy hours Saturday and Sunday despite the heavy traffic. This is attributed to the increased caution exercised by the people and motorists since the police inaugurated the new crossing rules.

Education of the public is to be carried on until everybody passes over the streets according to the policeman's traffic whistle once for the north and south directions and twice for the east and west.

"There has been considerable improvement in the traffic conditions at the corner," said Chief George T. Prim. "We intend to keep up the campaign of education because the public is very responsive and there seems to be a splendid cooperation of both drivers and pedestrians to avoid congestion, danger and accidents."

Many suggestions are being made for the regulation of traffic in the interest of all concerned and the ideas that have any value are being given consideration. The aim of the police department is to make College ave. as safe as any traffic center could be.

WOULD INCREASE CITY'S INSURANCE

A meeting of the common council's public grounds and buildings committee has been called by Chairman H. R. Beske for Tuesday evening at the city hall to continue its efforts in increasing the fire insurance on city buildings. The amount of insurance now carried by public buildings is considered abnormally low and the council recently referred the matter to the committee with power to act. It was learned that the entire insurance carried on public buildings was hardly more than $30,000. The city hall is insured for $7,000 and the engine house carries no insurance at all. It is planned by the committee to increase the insurance on all buildings to at least $100,000. Insurance on the water department buildings is included in this amount.

PAINS SO BAD WOULD GO TO BED

Two Women Tell How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Stopped Their Suffering

Iron Mountain, Mich.—"I had terrible pains every month and at times could not get to bed to go to bed on account of them. I saw your advertisement and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with very good results. I can work all day long now at my sick time. You may use these facts as a testimonial and I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends."—Mrs. A. H. GARLAND, 218 E. Brown St., Iron Mountain, Michigan.

Xenia, Ohio—"Every month I had such pains in my back and lower part of my abdomen that I could not lie quietly in bed. I suffered for about five years that way and I was not regular either. I read an advertisement of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other women, so I decided to try it. It surely has helped me a lot, as I have no pains now and am regular and feeling fine."—Mrs. MARY DALE, Route 7, Xenia, Ohio.

If you suffer as did Mrs. Garland or Mrs. Dale, you should give this well-known medicine a thorough trial.

APPLETON WILL HAVE A PART IN HIGHWAY JUBILEE

Long Tour is Planned to Celebrate Completion of Highway 15

Appleton will take a prominent part in the state-wide celebration that is to be held late in August or early in September in connection with the official opening of State trunk highway 15. Wisconsin's first four million dollar road.

Under the auspices of the Milwaukee Sentinel an opening inspection tour starting at the Illinois state line and finishing at Green Bay is to be held. Starting at the state line, the nucleus of the tour, comprising the official cars, a band, members of the Wisconsin Highway commission, representatives of good road associations, automobile clubs and other organizations interested in the improvement of highways, will proceed to Kenosha. Here it will be met and welcomed by an official Kenosha committee. After a short program, the procession will again get underway, having been joined by a Kenosha delegation of several automobiles, containing representatives of the city government, Elks' club, Kiwanis club, Rotary club and other fraternal and civic organizations.

That will be the program at every city up the route so that when the tour is completed at Green Bay several hundred automobiles, representing every city and town touched, will be in the procession. The tour will end at Green Bay with the big celebration of the day.

Official committees to make all local arrangements have been named in each city on the highway. These committees will see that the bands are playing, the crowds are waiting and the flags are flying when the tour rolls into their town. They will also organize their local delegations to join the tour. The personnel of the Appleton committee is as follows:

Henry Reuter, mayor, chairman.
John R. Riedl, Appleton Post-Crescent.

Major Lothar Graf, president, chamber of commerce.
John Conway, proprietor, Sherman House.

Ambrose Wilton, auto dealer.

A. R. Hirst, state highway engineer and executive officer of the Wisconsin Highway commission, has pledged the support and cooperation of himself and his organization to the undertaking. In speaking of the tour, Mr. Hirst said:

"The opening inspection tour will be an excellent medium to bring home to the people of the state the importance of the completion of Highway 15 into a solid concrete road between the state line and Green Bay. It is the finishing of the first leg of our comprehensive highway program and but a forerunner of what in years to come will be found all over Wisconsin. The people along the highway should feel proud of it and should do everything possible to make its opening celebration a success."

Indications at present are that the last concrete stretches will be completely laid shortly after the first of August. Following that about three weeks are necessary for the hardening of the concrete for the barden. The road may be opened. The schedule of the commission called for the last of the concrete to be laid by the middle of July, but the frequent rains have delayed the work somewhat. At present three stretches of concrete are being laid—two and one half miles between Oshkosh and Fond du Lac; five and one half miles between Fond du Lac and Theresa; and nine miles between Slinger and the Washington county line. The rest of the highway is all concreted and is now open to traffic.

The work of building State Trunk Highway 15 has been going on continuously for ten years. It has cost in federal and state funds more than $4,000,000. To those interested in good roads, it completely means more than a 177 mile concrete ribbon winding through one of the richest sections of a great state. It means that Wisconsin has done its part in the conversion of the famous old Post Trail between St. Louis and Green Bay, which the pioneers followed with their prairie schooners into a modern thoroughfare. When highway 15 is opened, it will be possible to go from the Missouri metropolis to Green Bay, a distance of about 588 miles, on modern pavement. This represents the longest continuous paved piece of roadway in the United States.

Those are a few of the reasons why the men who have worked hard to have the famous highway completed are proud of their work and why they are joining whole-heartedly in the Sentinel's move for a real, honest-to-goodness opening celebration tour.

The exact date of the tour has not as yet been set, it being contingent, of course, upon the completion of the highway.

Drunks Leave Biggest Tips To Their Waitresses

"What kind of person would you rather serve from the standpoint of tips?" a reporter asked several girls in restaurants.

"Give me the drunken man every time," said one. "He is free with his dollars and I need them as much as anyone does. When a man is tipsy, he usually is feeling generous and we reap the benefit."

"But what about the sober ones? How are they when it comes to tipping," inquired the reporter.

"Well the traveling men always stop to leave their dime," replied another.

"The tourist trade is pretty good about leaving a quarter or so and some of the local men leave a nickel or a dime."

"Life has one fellow who leaves his nickel very conscientiously every day. You know most people figure their tips about 10 per cent of their checks. There are some local people who never tip but most of these work as hard for their money as we do."

At the time of conventions (when most of the delegates are having their expenses paid) large tips are given to the girls who serve the meals. If a group of men are served together, they usually leave a little pile of silver in the middle of the table for the waitress. At the time of the League of Municipalities convention, one girl got $3.60 in nickels, dimes and quarters from six men upon whom she waited.

Presents other than money are often given to the girls by regular patrons in a restaurant. At Christmas time, a box of candy is usually forthcoming. Some fellows make it a point to give the girls something about once a month. Persons who stay for only a part of the year usually give the waitress a steable tip just before they leave.

START MOVE TO SAVE HIGH CLIFF FROM EXTINCTION

M. Niesen, Owner, Threatens to Quarry Rock Unless He Sells Park

High Cliff, one of the wonder beauty spots of Wisconsin, is threatened with extinction. Unless M. Niesen, Kaukauna, the owner of the property, can dispose of it in a short time, he plans to quarry the stone which makes up this wondrous cliff overlooking the north shore of Lake Winnebago, crush it and sell it to road builders.

Millions of cords of stone already has been taken out of the cliffs without destroying their beauty, but if the new enterprise is started the high walls of limestone rock soon will be blasted into pieces.

Thousands of persons visit the cliffs each week, spending hours clambering over the rocks and viewing the beautiful lake shore panorama. Fantastic rock formations, huge fissures in the cliffs, strange table ledges projecting over high trees at the bottom of the immense walls of stone attract visitors from all eastern Wisconsin. It is one of the few places in the state where bluebells, those dainty flowers which grow only on the sides of rocks, can be found. More than one young man has risked his neck hanging over the sheer walls to pick a few of the tiny blossoms for his sweetheart.

Mr. Niesen wants to sell the property because he has other business interests which demand his attention. It has been proposed that Outagamie, Calumet, Fond du Lac and either Brown or Winnebago counties combine to purchase the property and maintain it as a public park.

Rotary clubs of Appleton, Green Bay, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac also have been approached in an endeavor to save it from destruction. If these means fail it is proposed to appeal to the state to acquire it as a public recreation ground. It is one of the great scenic attractions in the eastern part of the state and it is said the state could not acquire a better park anywhere.

Green Growth On Lake Will Be Here Soon

The upper Fox river and the north end of Lake Winnebago may soon be visited by the summer green vegetation that grows in these waters in July and August of every year. Visitors at Oshkosh report that the green is on its way and should reach this vicinity in a few days.

The greenness is caused by an accumulation of plankton, or blue-green algae. It is not only annoying to bathers and offensive in odor, but interferes with the water supply of cities in the Fox river valley.

Mystery surrounds the sudden eccentricity of three wealthy and sedate brothers, one of them the father of the youthful

PATRICA DRAKE Alarmed because of the evident terror which has gripped the trio, Patricia asks the advice of her guardian

ATTORNEY JOHN WELLS, and tells him that two weeks ago her father,

ROBERT DRAKE, a Wall Street broker, clothed himself in a sheet and went to the town square where he delivered a mock oration

A few days later her uncle, ROGER DRAKE, an eminent scientist made a burlesque of a scientific address that morning, the third brother, her uncle,

ALBERT, was found seated on the floor playing with toys. The three are sane, sober and respected men

OWEN MILES, detective sergeant to investigate

GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II

"I have never encountered so strange a case," John Wells remarked when the office door closed behind their young client.

"I have been the attorney for Robert Drake and his sister Jerusha for the past twenty years and their affairs are in perfect shape." The attorney sat back in his chair and placed the tips of his fingers to gether reflectively. "Roger's brilliant scientific career speaks for itself and Andrew made a big financial success of his sheep ranch. I had known the family years ago but not intimately.

"They held themselves aloof from the neighborhood with the pride of poverty which resents the memory of past affluence.

"I should like to know how they impressed you before prosperity returned to them," the detective asked. "I want to gauge what changes the past twenty years have made in their general characters. It is evident from the widely different careers which they chose that the three brothers are as far apart in temperament as the poles."

"They always were," Wells remarked reminiscently. "Roger is the oldest of the family—he must be about forty-eight—and except in outward appearance he has changed the least in my estimation. He was always the dreamer, a shy sort of youth, Andrew, two years his junior, was just the opposite, boisterous and fun-loving and more sociable than any of the rest. Jerusha—Miss Drake comes next. She was dignified and austere even as a mere girl."

"What of the third brother, the father of the young lady?"

"There you will find the greatest change, Sergeant." The attorney spoke hastily and in more confidential tones as if to make amends for his implied suggestion. "Hobart was a drab, colorless young bank clerk at twenty-three, wholly without ambition to get out of the rut. New, and until this unfortunate episode the leading citizen of his community. I cannot believe that his sanity is in question, much less than all three brothers should be attacked at virtually the same time! I feel that there must be some other explanation."

The attorney pushed back his chair and rising, moved to the window where he stood for a moment. Then he wheeled. "Sergeant, I haven't a theory, a suspicion, an idea of a possible solution. The whole thing is monstrous, incredible! If I were ignorant and superstitious if I believed in the Evil Eye—"

He left the sentence unfinished and Owen Miles smiled slightly once more.

"But science has proved the existence of the modern equivalent of the Evil Eye, hasn't it, sir? Isn't that what you're getting at?"

"You mean hypnotism, of course? It seems too bizarre a thought to entertain seriously. If these three brothers are not the victims of some strange drug, self-administered or otherwise, which is slowly driving them mad, what possible alternative explanation is there?"

The detective rose also and picked up his hat from the desk. "We shall see."

The afternoon was well advanced when Sergeant Owen Miles approached the long lines of gleaming greenhouses near a country club and then paused as a hearty voice hailed him from the golf links. Turning he beheld a stocky, robust figure clad in golfing clothes striding vigorously toward him.

"What the dickens—" Miles stared as they clasped hands. "Scottie, what's come over you that you are fooling around with the idle rich at a country club?"

"Didn't you hear, Owen, my lad?" Fergus McReady beamed joyously on his youthful friend. "This community has seen fit to make me up social like and I've taken up my own national game to keep in shape."

"I've got a bigger game on than golf, Scottie, and I hoped you would like to take a hand in it with me."

He paused suggestively and Scottie rose to the bait.

"What is the case, laddie?"

When the story was concluded he remarked briefly:

"I'm with you. It may be a madhouse we're going to but it sounds to me like something very different."

CHAPTER III

Just after the dinner hour that evening, Sergeant Miles, alias William Brown, the new houseman, presented himself at the kitchen door of the square old Colonial house in which

so many generations of the Drake family had lived.

An elderly butler made his appearance.

"The new houseman? Miss Drake will see you in the servants' sitting room."

Almost immediately a tall, gray-haired woman entered.

"My niece engaged you at our usual agency?" Her voice was deeply contralto and it seemed to Miles that her bright, dark eyes beneath the strong brows were at tempting to bore him through. "Did she explain the duties which would be required of you?"

"Everything is quite satisfactory, William," she said, after he had answered the routine questions. "We will give you your room and Pierre will have some supper prepared for you in the servants' dining room."

Carter, the butler, reappeared and led the way up two flights of back stairs to a small but immaculate room at the side of the house. Miles waited until he heard the other's footsteps descending the stairs before he extinguished the light and raised the shade.

As he looked across the grounds, a shambling man's figure shuffled down the drive. It was assuredly neither the round elf nor the elderly dignified butler. Could it be the custodian man or was there an eavesdropper, an interloper hanging about the place?

Descending to the ground floor Miles wandered out through the entry and across the driveway.

The hour was growing late and it was probable that he would have no opportunity that night to encounter the three brothers. Miles turned jauntily at the shambling figure came sauntering around the bushes.

"What you don't here?" The negro's teeth were chattering in his head.

"Who are you?" Miles countered amiably. "I'm William Brown, the new houseman."

"Dat's de truth? I'm Rupides Lunt. Run for short night watchman use midnight an' most everything else outdoors in de daytime."

"Why, what's the matter?" Miles laughed. "There can't be any danger of tramps or burglars."

Rupides chewed ruminatively for a moment.

"There's more dan tramps an' thieves can come sashayin' round some mighty funny things goin' on in dis here neighborhood lately an' when de next comes off it's goin' to be where Rup Lunt ain't—I got to be movin'."

CHAPTER IV

Without arousing the reluctant night watchman again Miles entered the house and made his way up the back stairs to his own room.

All was dark on that side of the house now save in the room just below his own.

Someone was pacing the floor of that room below with a measured tread which told of deep concentration.

Drawing on a dark bathrobe and slippers Miles opened his door noiselessly and crept down one flight of stairs, making for the door which he calculated as being directly under his own. He had gone but a few steps when a door across the hall opened with a jerk, and a short and most burly figure with touselled brown hair and a heavy, sun-browned countenance crossed to the other door and turned the knob softly.

Miles was close enough to hear the subdued, yet urgent tones of the newcomer.

"Roger, let me in! I want to speak to you!" a whisper came.

"What is it, Andrew? Am I never to have any peace?"

"It's just this, Roger. You'll go to pieces if you're not careful!" The hearty, slightly aggressive tone of Andrew Drake was louder now, but roughly affectionate. "You gave yourself dead away tonight to that bug hunting, weed gathering—nut, Grady. He seems to be your best friend, but even he'll begin to think and talk like the rest of the town if you don't help to pass the whole thing off as a joke."

"Joke?" repeated Roger in trembling tones. "Is there any joke in what has descended upon us?"

"Look here!" Andrew spoke with the patient, incisive emphasis of one imparting a lesson. "Hobart had a drop too much abroad when he went out and made that Julius Caesar speech, and your lecture was an ill-adviced bit of pleasantry, while I was only playing a trick this morning to scare that fool Edward Got that straight!"

A moan was Roger's only answer and Andrew growled.

"What's your idea, then? Do you want the whole town to think that we are afflicted?" There had been a palpable pause before the last word.

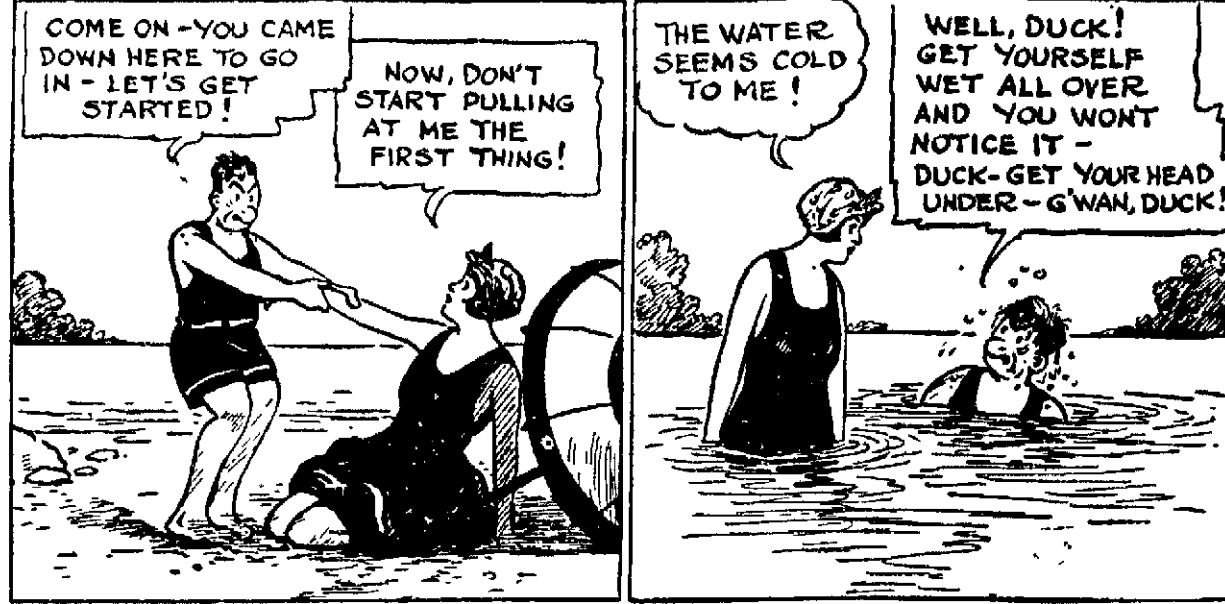

"Aren't we?" Roger's voice was vibrant with sudden tragedy. "Haven't we been for years, even though we three have managed until now to conceal it from all the rest of the world? What is the end going to be? I can see the writing on the wall and I tell you I am not going to endure it until utter madness comes! There is a quick way out, quick and sure—"

Product of Foreign Workmen Is

BY MARGARET ROHE
To make good wiener schnitzel and
T. best of wiener wurst
Is not the only art in which
The Viennese are versed;
And so the Wiener Werkstaette now,
Upon Fifth Avenue,
Has put the other arts and crafts
On view for me and you.

The que- of the golden girl occupied the attention of almost every male before Richard Galliene wrote about it. It is the species, on the contrary, I've not seemed to bother their heads, nor any quest for the golden man. One of them should take a notion to search for such a yellow hero, however, she won't have far to go.

Larger than life and twice as jaundiced, the golden man is the dominating male at the exhibition of Viennese art now being shown in New York.

Alas, not only will this golden idol be found to possess clay feet, but a scratch on his surface will reveal the disillusioning fact that his 14-carat qualities are only a thin veneer of gold leaf. Basically speaking, he is all to the terra cotta. Lurid, the artist who created him, feels some credit is due the golden man, however, for being the largest terra cotta figure ever made.

TREASURE QUESTS END
Almost all quests for treasure, dear to both feminine and masculine hearts, can be ended at this Wiener Werkstaette of America. Exquisite laces, hand-blocked silks, enamels ceramics, glass, ivories, jewelry, hand-tooled leather, gold and silver articles, paintings and wall paper are only a half of the 22 lines of art shown here to introduce the work of the Viennese artists to the American market.

There are 1,000 of these young artists, both men and women, connected with the Wiener Werkstaette of Vienna. The plant occupies an entire block there where they all work, each one individually and independently, developing his own inspirations.

Joseph Urban, who designs theatrical scenery, used to be one of them when he was a youthful artist in Vienna. He still has their interests at heart and since the post-war hard times have threatened to crush out their little group he conceived the idea of starting a branch Wiener Werkstaette in New York where the original work could be brought over, exhibited and sold to advantage for the struggling artists back home.

EVERYTHING FROM VIENNA
Everything now shown in the exhibition is for sale and everything comes from Vienna save the gar-gases, the rustic furniture and quaint hanging lights which Mr.
Urban has designed himself and had executed here.

Mr. Urban also designed the interior decorations for the show rooms of the exhibition, which are as fanciful and charming as his illustrations for Grimm's and Anderson's Fairy Tales. The effects are so fantastically different and so harmoniously beautiful that the visitor feels he must be in a palace, on Mars instead of a loft on Fifth Avenue.
Already on the strength of the exhibition rooms the Wiener Werk-staette of America has received many orders for interior decoration this fall. It will probably only be a question of time when American housewives will be chucking out all their painfully acquired highboys, fourposters and hooked rugs and telling the Wiener Werkstaette interior decorators to go ahead and do their wiener worst.

TESTED RECIPE

CASSEROLE OF RICE AND SHRIMPS

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

- 1 cup rice
- 1 can or 1/2 pound fresh shrimps
- 1 small onion (finely chopped)
- 2 cloves of garlic (finely chopped)
- 3 tablespoons oil or fat
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 2 cups tomatoes
- 2 cups water

Pick over and thoroughly wash the rice. If the shrimps are fresh ones and have not been boiled wash and cook in boiling water 20 minutes.
When cool remove shell and separate the fish into two or three pieces.

Fry the onion and garlic in the fat until yellow, then add the rice and fry until slightly brown. Turn into a casserole, add shrimps, seasonings, tomatoes and water. Cover and cook slowly one and one-half hours. Serve from the casserole.

If one does not wish to use a casserole this may be cooked in a double boiler.

One cup of cooked salmon or crab meat may be used in place of the shrimps.

The garlic may be omitted, but it improves the flavor.

(Cut this out and paste it in your cook book.)

Whom Shall Mollie Marry?

Chapter 16 — Can Ben Crush Billy?

As Mollie reached the street from Barton's office she almost ran into Ben Wheeler's arms as he swung from his big car.

How like Ben to come flying around on the instant to find out what had occurred—and would occur! With a masterful hand at her elbow, he helped her in.

In a way Ben was a man to be proud of. Not ill-looking; handsome rather, in a big, harsh way. In his carriage, his voice, his very grooming and clothes, he was the prosperous American.

If only Ben had a strain of softness, sweetness, a bit of subtle understanding! If only he—

Mollie's reverie was broken as, swerving the car into the River Road, Ben spoke suddenly.
"That fellow can't win, Mollie.
I've just won over Collins and Meyer, of the committee, which means Barton's plans are rejected.
As for his suit against me, I'll fight him to the Supreme Court. What will he be when I'm through with him?"

"Come, Mollie, chuck poetizing and marry me."

NATURE FACTS
AND FREAKS

A RODENT THAT "MAKES HAY"

By Prof. M. J. Elrod
Far up on the summits of the Rocky Mountains, usually near to or above timber, but sometimes as low as 4,000 feet, the mountaineer may hear a short, sharp, and startling
"kek," which will bring him to a sudden pause.

Only by remaining quiet can he determine the direction or locality of the sound. But to the person familiar with the rather scant though strange mountain life, the sound is delightful, for he knows it comes from the harmless little pika, a tailless rodent, the sanctity of whose home has been invaded.

About the size of a third-grown cotton-tail rabbit, big-eared, short-legged, rat-like, and timid, the little-chief-hare by its shrill bleat-like cry announces the presence of an intruder to the colony and dashes into the retreat made by the rock crevices.

Scattered across Asia and Alaska, filtering southward among the Rockies to Colorado and Southern California, this timid little animal lives a secluded life in mountain fastnesses where short, hot summers prevail and where long winter's snow and ice block the crevices for most of the year.

The pika makes hay while the sun shines. The home of the colony is quite sure to be among rocks around whose bases are beautiful swards of grass or sedge. These the industrious little animals cut with their sharp teeth.

The cut grass is tended with apparent care until dry, and carried into their dens for food, warmth and comfort during the long winter.

It is a wonderful instinct, highly developed, and has given to the pika
the title it so well deserves, little haymaker.

UKRAINIAN EMBROIDERY

Ukrainian embroidery in the most gorgeous colors is seen on some of the newest stockings. Sometimes it is introduced in the form of clocks at either side, but it is never to have the design in front over the instep.

VOGUE OF RED

Not in many years has red—just solid, turkey red—been so popular.
At smart resorts the all-red evening gown is second only to the black frock and often the black one is livened up with the judicious use of a bit of red.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

Ceremony plays no part in the marriage of the Tongataboo bride and groom.
The father buys his daughter a new frock, packs up as much baked ham, yams and ya-va root as he feels he can afford and the two start for the home of the groom.

The feast that follows constitutes the wedding ceremony.

GIRLS! LEMONS

BLEACH SKIN WHITE

Squeeze the juice of two lemons in-grant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note

the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lem-

a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.

watching from the tower of her Castle of Mirrors, saw them coming, and made a signal to the furious falcon who guarded the gate of King Indig's palace.

For the first time in a thousand years, the furious falcon forsook his post and flew to a tree near his window.

"The falcon's gone—the falcon's gone!" cried the people, and instantly there was a chase to catch the ancient bird. The falcon, with his steel feathers all sharply barbed, had been King Indig's only army.

"Quick! Catch him!" called King Indig, forgetting all about playing hopscotch and joining in the chase himself.

Everybody ran and by and by they came to the park where they found the falcon resting outside Princess Therma's window.

But before anyone had time to climb the tree, there was a noise in the air and Nancy, Nick and the dove arrived, followed in a moment by King Verdo who looked like a flying machine.

When King Indig saw King Ver-do he scowled, and when King Ver-do saw King Indig he frowned. My how those two hated each other!

Princess Therma looked at them both and shuddered. Then she stroked the white dove which had flown to her window sill.

"Oh, I can't marry either of them," she sighed. "They are both so ugly."

Suddenly the falcon cried out,
"Silence everybody! It is now to be decided which of these two gentlemen is the finer looking. Longhead the Wiseman has decided, and his words are on a record which the Twins brought here where all can hear."

YOU MUST FIX
THE FLOORS SOON

Proper floor coverings are highly important from every point of view.
The floor covering you choose must be attractive to look at, as well as made of good materials.

The floor itself, being a perma-of durable materials, well laid, and suitable to the purpose for which each particular room is used.

Experts of the Federal Government have made a thorough study of the subject of floors and floor coverings. The results of their scientific investigations are embodied in a non-technical booklet of great value to home builders and house-

FOR GARDEN WEAR

By Mary Brooks Picken

Nowadays one need not hesitate about adopting a costume in which the skirt is replaced by comfortable knickers, provided this costume is intended for wear when unrestricted freedom is needed for some particular out-of-door activity. Surely, garden work is one of the summer activities that is deserving of special costume suggestions, for, at this time of year, there is a tendency to neglect the plants that were started with so much enthusiasm. And what could be more effective in again rousing interest in garden work than a suit of this type, fashioned of linen in green of a notably cool and restful variety and smartly decorated with black peasant embroidery so lovely that it would grace even an afternoon costume?

A pleasing feature of the over-bouse is its length, which is sufficient to extend well down over the hips and thus provide a distinctly womanly note to the design. Other

YOUR JOB

BY ELIZABETH ARNOLD

No doubt you think you have executive ability. We all do. In answer to the first question: "What kind of work do you want?" every employment manager is familiar with the girl who answers, "Oh, anything; some kind of executive work." In answer to his second question: "What kind of work have you done?" the same girl often answers, "I have never worked before." As a matter of fact there are very few executive openings in industry for beginners. The openings in most industries are not executive, and they are the same to all.
The opportunities, however, depend on the individual. Jobs are like hats —it makes all the difference in the world who wears them—whether they are becoming.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You remember it is a woman's privilege to bow first when she meets any men acquaintances.
A young unmarried woman usually waits to be recognized first by an older or married woman.
The courteous woman never fails to recognize in all public places those who serve her in any capacity, or those she patronizes.

points in its favor are the roomy rag-lan sleeves and the collar rolling high at the back, which protects the arms and neck from sunburn.

Wash Tub Keeps
Hands Beautiful

Would you believe that I envy my laundress her soft, girlish hands?
"Martha," I finally asked her, "how on earth do you keep them that way?" This is what she told me—
"Once my hands were red, rough and dry, due to white and yellow laundry soaps. The skin cracked and burned for hours after washing. I sought relief in lotions but the next time I washed clothes, the redness and roughness would return."
One night I read an article that told how a chemist found something called "Flier" in all the laundry soaps he examined—nearly thirty—except one. He said that "Flier" had no cleaning power but was only used to fill up the bar because it was cheap and soap fats were more expensive.

"But, he said these 'fliers' cut the clothes and rotted them, so I decided if they did this to materials that must be what made my hands so red and rough."

"The one soap he said that had no 'flier' in it was a large bar called GREEN ARROW that was greenish in color like castle, because it contained real olive oil."

"Well, I induced the next woman
I washed for to get some from her grocer."

"The very first washing left my hands soft and not the least rough or red. But it took several washings before I realized I was using too much soap, because GREEN AR-ROW, being all soap, is all cleaning power and goes much further than the soap I had been using. I have never seen anything like this combination of olive oil and naphtha in GREEN ARROW Soap—the way it cuts the grease and fairly makes the dirt drop out of the clothes after a little soaking. I scarcely ever have to rub anything, except perhaps the seat of Teddy's rompers or Mr. Barton's shirt bands and collar bands, and never any hard, destructive rubbing even so."

"I washed for to get some from her grocer."

FOR FALL

Smart new topcoats of tweeds, herringbones and checks are frequently made of reversible materials and may be worn with either side out.
Throw scarfs will be worn this fall and short capes are being introduced.

SWEATERS

White silk sweaters are the most popular ones on the market today, with black ones second, dealers say.
As the season advances the tendency toward black and white combinations becomes more marked.

GIRDLES

Some of the new girdles have a queer conception of their duty. They are made of the material of the frock, loosely braided. Sometimes a soft cord is used as a foundation beneath the material.

HORTONVILLE TEAM LOOKS GOOD FOR KIMBERLY GAME

Village Fans Banking On Rummel For Victory

Hot Pitchers' Battle is Expected Next Sunday Between Pocan and Rummel

The Hortonville team of the Outa game league showed lots of real form in the game against Black Creek Sunday afternoon and from all appearances will bid strong to be in the race for the championship in the second half.

Pocan of Kimberly has been considered about the best thing on the mound that the league could boast of but the bug from out Hortonville was willing to lay a stack by Rummel. He showed himself to be a real all-around baseballer in last Sunday's game and great things are being predicted for him in the coming game with Kimberly next Sunday. That should prove to be a tough contest and one well worth going to see for it will likely be a grand display of pitching ability by Pocan and Rummel.

No doubt about it Rummel did show up strong in the Black Creek game making a two bagger and a three bagger besides working in a double play and hurling a ball.

Both the Hortonville and Kimberly teams were able to hit well in the games of Sunday. These two teams are probably the strongest in the league and the scrap next Sunday should be a hot one. There is a lot of enthusiasm over the coming affair among the Hortonville fans who are becoming more and more confident that their favorite mound artist and for that matter the whole team will be able to down the Kimberly outfit at Hortonville next Sunday.

PITTSBURG AND NEW YORK EACH TAKE ONE GAME

Cooper Wins First Session for Pirates — Adams Routed in Second Game

Pittsburg—New York and Pittsburg split a double header here on Monday, the Pirates winning the first, 3 to 2, while the Giants took the second, 11 to 0.

Cooper was master in the first game, keeping the Giants' hits scattered. His support was sensational. The visitors pounded four pitchers in the final game for nineteen hits. The veteran Adams was taken out after three innings, but the other pitcher hurled fared just the same. A feature was Carey's home run with one on scores.

Phila., Pa.—Bobby Barrett, lightweight won a popular decision over Joe Welling in an 8 round bout.

BY BOB DORMAN

Delanco, N. J.—Lew Tendler is hard at work here developing his left smacker, which he says will win him the lightweight title.

He is leaving nothing undone that will tend to put him in shape to remove the burden of the crown from Benny Leonard's brow when they meet the night of July 27 in the arena at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City.

Tendler is confident he will be returned the victor.

He says, "I hope to wear Leonard down with crashing lefts to the body and then drop him with the same punch. It's worked on lots of other fighters and I believe it will work on Benny.

"Boxing as I do with my right hand and right foot forward I will have two hands to his one.

WILL WATCH RIGHT.

"His left mitt will be useless to him for offense. He can use it only on the back of my neck or shoulder or, if he wants to, he can slam me on the top of my head.

"His right, which is his dangerous hand, is the only one I will have to watch.

"But Benny had better watch both my hands.

"Another advantage that my style of fighting gives me is the fact there are so few fighters using it that when a man does go up against it it is awkward for him to solve. Every blow or defense is reversed.

HARD TO REACH

"I'll admit Leonard is one of the greatest lightweights that ever lived, but I have high hopes of winning from him."

Tendler's left-handed style of fighting has proved a difficult problem for all of the lightweight contenders. Let jabs and swings landed on Tendler's neck or back (the only spots left open to a right-handed boxer) were futile, while Lew has always been an elusive problem to reach with the right.

And Tendler's own patented left up-percut to the stomach, landed with terrific force, has usually spelled finish to his opponent.

LIVELY BATS ARE BEING RULED OUT IN MAJOR LEAGUES

Nails Driven Into Bat Where Contact With Ball is Made Lend Impetus

By Billy Evans

The lively bat is the very latest thing in baseball.

For several years most of the hard hitting has been charged against the so-called lively ball.

Now there comes the question as to whether the bat is playing a part. Major league catchers are of the belief that the bat is doing its bit toward helping along the slugging that now features the major leagues.

How come the bat to be regarded as lively? Well, here is the latest rumor that is going the rounds relative to the increased hitting.

Major league players have their favorite bats. Weather conditions and the hard usage to which the bats are subjected often cause them to crack with the grain.

In order to preserve these favorite bats, it has been the custom for years with major league players to drive a few small nails or tacks into the bat where it showed signs of splitting.

HOW IT WORKS

Although the rules say that the bat shall be entirely of wood, little attention has ever been paid to the custom of driving a few nails into a favorite bat in order to preserve it.

The use of a few nails for such a purpose was in no way cheating, simply a precaution used by the players for keeping the favorite bat from splitting so badly that it would be unfit for use.

It is a well-known fact that the hardest hit balls come into contact with the bat at a point from six to twelve inches from the end of the bat. When a batsman hits the ball in that spot it generally travels.

Now to explain the lively bat and the possibilities it offers.

Some player evidently got the idea that it would be a clever stunt to stud the bat with nails at the favorite point of contact. Only a week or so ago, I ruled out a bat that had 52 nails driven into the bat close to the end.

PRACTICE GENERAL

It is said that the practice has become general in both big leagues, and that most of the players are using bats that are heavily studded with nails.

It is a very easy matter to imagine how solid sixty nails would make a small area. It is also easy to picture how much impetus such a studded area would give to a ball that was properly hit.

ROD AND REEL

By DIXIE CARROLL

THE BACKLASH

Getting down to the secret of the cause of backlashes, you will find that thumbing the reel improperly is a secondary fault and that the real reason for those little mixed-up jumbles of line is that the line has been spooled in poor shape after making the preceding cast. Even spooling of the line is simply insurance against backlashes. At the same time it is to some fishermen a mighty thing game, and many a fervent prayer has been uttered by the finger-weary bait-tosser for a level winding reel.

To the fellow who has never enjoyed the pleasure of a backlash, and to the expert who never gets 'em, the following system will be found a sure producer of a backlash that will make a Chinese puzzle look like a straight line. Just in an offhand way reel in your line without noticing it, let it pile up on the spool until it humps in the center and clings lovingly to one of the end plates, make your cast, and we guarantee a beautiful, classy backlash, which will produce more cuss words to the square inch than any other part of the fishing game. Now that you have at last secured a backlash, common to us ordinary bait-tossers, it is easy to realize just what the level-winding reel eliminates in the sport of casting.

Another advantage of the level wonder is that, with its use you can give undivided attention to your lure and the playing of a fish. During the excitement of the strike and play a fellow likes to keep his eyes on the old "he wop" tugging for liberty and it's a good bet that in the majority of cases little attention is paid to the level spooling of the line.

CLEVELAND COPS FROM WHITE SOX; HIT FABER FREELY

Indians' Pitcher Coveleskie Has Chicago Team Puzzled—Score 5 to 2

Cleveland — Cleveland defeated Chicago on Monday, 5 to 2. Coveleskie was a puzzle, especially with men on bases, until the eighth inning, when Hooper doubled with two on and two out. The Indians hit Faber safely in nearly every inning. A spectacular diving catch by Speaker of Hooper's line drive to center and doubling Collins off first was the fielding feature. Cleveland . . . 0 1 1 2 0 1 0 5—5 10 1

WALKER GETS 24TH HOMER

Philadelphia — Bryan Harris held Washington to six hits on Monday and Philadelphia won 4 to 2. Clarence Walker hit his twenty-fourth home run of the season off Erickson in the third inning and was robbed of another in the seventh when a fan pushed the ball out of the bleachers. Adolph Bettig, who defeated St. Louis Browns on Wednesday signed an athletic contract on Monday and left with the team for the west. Score: Washington . . . 0 1 0 0 1 0 0 0—2 6 0

BENNY AND LEW IN TRIM FOR BATTLE

New York — Benny Leonard and Lew Tendler have turned into the stretch in their training stunts, and both are reported in great fettle for their twelve round bout at Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, next Thursday night.

When Leonard quit work Sunday afternoon he weighed 134½, so there is now no doubt about his facing Tendler at the regulation lightweight limit 135 pounds. Incidentally, the champion announced that he never felt better in his life, and repeated his assurance that he was going to knock out the Quaker City challenger. At Delanco, N. J., where Tendler wound up his preliminary work, the roads were congested all afternoon. More than 1,000 fans made the trip from Philadelphia to get a line on their favorite. The southpaw is keen for the fight to start, and is confident that he will be the next champion when the row is over.

TWO INDUSTRIAL TEAMS ARE BADLY BEATEN SATURDAY

Fox River and Tuttle Press Teams Swamped; Toy Company Loses, 8 to 6

Two of the industrial league contests staged Saturday afternoon were walk-aways for the winners while the third tussle was a close one and proved to be a real game. The Fox River Paper company's team was swamped by the Combined Locks outfit by the score of 17 to 0. The paper company's team was badly crippled because several of the regular players were on shift work at the mill so it was only a pick up team that opposed the Locks aggregation. The Tuttle Press team also suffered a decisive defeat at the hands of the Valley Iron Works team. The final tally was 13 to 5.

The Toy Company team, although beaten by Kimberly, put up a good scrap and came out only two runs behind the winners. Kimberly succeeded in getting eight tallies to six for the Toy Company.

VETERANS MEET IN THREE GAMES TUESDAY EVENING

First Plays Sixth — Second Meets Third — Fourth Takes on Fifth

Tuesday evening the American Legion Twilight teams will engage in their weekly strife on the baseball diamonds. Players from the different wards are showing a great deal of interest in the games and as a result some very good exhibitions are staged.

Graef's First warders go to the Columbus school diamond to meet Scheurle's aggregation. The First warders still are undefeated.

The Third and Second warders are slated to meet at Jones park diamond. Hauert's second ward outfit has been a minus quantity recently but he may have better luck Tuesday and be able to gather a crew of veterans to face the Third warders.

The Fifth and Fourth ward teams will clash on the Fourth ward school diamond in a hot fight. These teams are very evenly matched and always furnish one of the best contests of the league.

The second fight was in New York, the champion again stopping the challenger, in the twelfth round this time. In the poorest fight Dempsey has made since he won the title

The conduct of the youths had caused the police to keep them under surveillance, and they therefore were located easily when the truth became known.
A search of the hotel room revealed orders for advertisements torn to bits, from which it was evident that Park Falls, Hurley, Washburn and other points had been the scene of operations. The dummy of an American Legion convention program also was found, together with destroyed order blanks. The men possessed an order from the label department of the American Federation of Labor to solicit advertisements, but it was undated.
Sithar was hired in Milwaukee to drive the men through the state and was paid $5 a day for his services and all expenses connected with the use of his automobile.

Returns From Convention
William Kraemer has returned from a trip of ten days to Omaha, Neb., where he attended the national convention of the Weather League as a delegate of Olive Branch society of Mount Olive Evangelical Lutheran church. He will present his report later. Detroit was given the next convention.
